PREPARING FOR ANOTHER STORM

Crane, hired by San Rafael Public Works Department to help clean up debris of last week's storm before another rain hits, scoops out drainage ditch beside San Pedro Road near Loch Lomond entrance. It was scheduled to work later in Bret Harte area, where 9-year-old John Herman Carter lost his life by drowning in the flood last Wednesday. Much silt was deposited in drainage ditches by last week's storm. City and school officials were to confer today on San Rafael's drainage problems, including open culverts. A heavy storm was forecast for tonight, but it may not be as bad as last week's.

Brown Presents Legislature Record $3.25-Billion Budget

$1.2 Billion Asked For Schools

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The legislature was asked today to spend 1.39 billion dollars, including bond financing, for education and lift some of the school tax from the shoulders of local property owners.

The education budget figure, without bond financing is 1.2 billion dollars.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown said the money would be used to maintain the highest academic standards for the biggest public school student body in the United States.

The governor offered this help to the local school district taxpayer:

A total of 843.3 million dollars was sought in state aid to the districts. Of this, 813.2 million dollars is needed to keep up with a booming school population.

NEW MONEY

The rest—30 million dollars—would be new money. It would be supplemented by another 25 million dollars from a proposed county-wide school tax which Brown said would force wealthy districts to share the load with poorer ones.

Unless the legislature approves the county-wide tax, Brown said, it should not allocate the extra 30 million dollars in state aid.

Brown's total request compares with 1.27 billion dollars being spent for schools this year.

He told the legislature that there have been "dramatic increases in school population."

More than 4 million youngsters will attend classes in kindergarten through junior college—some 220,000 more than this year.

FOR COLLEGES

The University of California expects 61,277 students, up 7.1 per cent from this year. The state colleges anticipate 94,840, a 9.8 per cent increase.

To meet this growth, Brown asked for 174.7 million dollars to support the University of California and $114 million to run the 17 state colleges.

And, backed by voter approval of a 270 million dollars state construction bond issue last year, Brown asked for 69.5 million dollars for new U.C. buildings. This includes 10.9 million dollars for the new university Irvine campus in Orange County.

A total of 58.7 million dollars was requested for construction at the state colleges.

Another sign of growing school-age population is the amount of money requested for free textbooks—$11.8 million, up 31.4 per cent from current expenditures.

There's also financing for a new program to help educate slum children and cut dropouts and funds for teaching children about the evils of narcotics and dangerous drugs.

Also included are $500,000 for state college faculty research and $850,000 in state aid to public libraries.

BUDGET AT GLANCE

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Budget total: $3,250,401,969, up 12 per cent over 1962-63.

Where it goes: State operations, 932.2 million dollars; capital outlay, 329.9 million dollars plus 305.3 million dollars in bonds; local assistance, 1,652 billion dollars.

Estimated revenues: $2,883,738,093.

Biggest single item: education, $1,261,681,000.

What's new in it: Proposed income tax withholding, putting corporate taxes on current basis.

New positions: 7,157.

Estimated General Fund surplus: 3.6 million dollars on June 30, 1964.

How Withholding Tax Would Work

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A married man with two children who earns $7,500 a year would have 50 cents taken out of his weekly paycheck under Gov. Edmund G. Brown's income tax withholding plan.

By the end of the year, the taxpayer would have paid $26. His tax would be $26.26, but the state would disregard payments due of less than $1, so he'd be even.

The same family with an income of $10,000 a year, or $192 a week, would have $1 a week withheld, a total of $52 for the year. His tax would be $43, so he could collect a $4 refund.

The State Finance Department released the breakdown today with the governor's budget message in which he asked that the withholding plan take effect in July 1964.

The department said a majority of California's wage and salary earners, including 850,000 who now pay less than $10 for married persons and $5 for a single persons, would be exempt.

With the program taking effect in the middle of the year, the family of four with $7,500 income would have only $13 withheld for the six months. A 25 per cent "forgiveness" for the first year would cut off $6.57. He would owe a total of $6.69 April 15, 1965 on his 1964 earnings.

Here's the finance department's break down for single persons:

With $5,000 yearly earnings, withholding would be 70 cents a week for a yearly total of $36.40. His tax would be $35, so he'd get a $1.40 refund.

With $7,500 earnings, the withholding would be $1.60 a week or $83.20 for the year.

Biggest Of Any State

(See also stories, page 9)

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown submitted a 3.25-billion-dollar budget to the legislature today, and proposed a series of tax reforms to help finance the biggest one-year outlay in any state's history.

California's first budget to surpass 3 billion dollars, it would outstrip expected revenue and top the Democratic administration's 1962-63 request by 360 million dollars, or 12 per cent.

But Brown, holding to his no new-tax pledge, came up with a plan he said would stave off additional levies for at least two more years and maybe longer.

PAYROLL SYSTEM

It includes putting income, bank, corporation and insurance taxes on a current basis—they're now paid a year later; and installing the payroll withholding system on personal income taxes in 1964.

At the same time, the governor urged the heavily Democratic legislature to eliminate personal income taxes for single individuals who pay less than $5 and married persons who pay no more than $10.

The exemption, affecting some 850,000 taxpayers, would write off 2.5 million dollars in revenue.

BOND MONEY

Brown asked for $2,945,027,761 to run the state government in 1963-64. Another $305,374,208 in voter-approved bond money would be used for the state water project and state building, mostly for the University of California and 17 state colleges.

The budget total of $3,250,401,969 compares with the 2.9 billion dollars for 1962-63, and again it's a record high. New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller last week asked his legislature for 2.8 billion dollars.

Brown calculated the state's revenue next year at $2,883,738,098 and said it's closely geared to the anticipated economic life from a cut in federal income taxes.

He emphasized that new and improved services represent only 1.6 per cent of the total outlay. Among other items, he recommended a 30-million-dollar increase in aid to local school districts and 30.7 million dollars for state salary raises.

What's pushing costs ever upward, the governor said, is the pressure of the swelling population. California has 17.6 million people now, he said; it will have 18.2 million by July of 1964.

Brown offered the tax changes conceived by Finance Director Hale Champion as the best way to make ends meet without further taxation.

The accelerated tax payments would yield 139 million

Another Heavy Storm Expected Tonight

Public works departments in Marin today were bracing for another heavy rainstorm, with high winds expected to hit the county tonight.

The storm was not expected to be so disastrous as last week's which dumped up to 16.21 inches of rain (in Ross), caused widespread damage and claimed one life.

Heavy rain tonight and intermittent rain tomorrow were forecast. Small craft warnings flew for south winds from 25 to 35 miles per hour in San Francisco Bay.

The San Rafael Department of Public Works was taking no chances. Norris Rawles, public works director, said he had hired six additional men and a crane with a drag line to clean out all open ditches and culverts which silted up last week.

Rawles said all catch basins and culverts had been checked. "Our biggest fear of flooding is in the Bret Harte area if the storm is a big one," he said.

County public works department crews today cleared away a five-ton boulder which fell yesterday on Lucas Valley Road at Big Rock. All county roads have been reopened and slides cleared, reported Donald R. Frost, public works director.

Unseasonably high temperatures over the state yesterday sent thousands of persons onto beaches in the Los Angeles area where a record 92-degree temperature was set at Los Angeles-International Airport.

Snow remained at only the highest elevation in the Sierra Nevada. The thermometer registered 55 degrees yesterday in Tahoe City. Ski areas were closed over the weekend.

San Rafael City, School Officials To Confer On Open-Culvert Problem

San Rafael school and city officials were to confer today on drainage problems, including an open culvert, on the Laurel Dell Intermediate and Davidson school properties.

An open culvert at Lovell Avenue and Jordan Street bordering the school property claimed the life of John Herman Carter, 9, of 109 Woodland Avenue last Wednesday when flood waters washed him into it.

Supt. Bert C. Corona said that Lewis G. McCall, director of the school district's maintenance, would check with city public works department officials today to "see what could be done."

Corona said: "Our people checked the culvert today and found that it was almost completely filled up with silt." The open end of the culvert lies two-thirds within school property and one-third in city property.

Corona said he would make a report to the board of education at its Feb. 12 meeting.

Mayor John F. McInnis said today that the drainage of the area and the open culvert would be discussed at tonight's city council meeting.

"I don't see how a spot remedy could be meaningful if we don't do something for the whole area," said McInnis, referring to the proposed Bret Harte Drainage Assessment District which the school district opposes because of high cost.

Inverness Master Plan Delay Lashed

Marin County Planning Commissioner H. C. Hankins of Point Reyes Station today blasted the county planning staff and objected to "constant delays" in zoning to await the West Marin Master Plan.

The commission finally deadlocked 3-3 on Hankins' motion to approve commercial zoning for about eight acres owned by Marguerite B. Copp, on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard a mile south of Inverness.

"I strongly object to the language in this report," Hankins said, referring to staff planner Edmund Kagi's description of a "conflict" between planning and the "real estate market."

"Things are taking place here with which I disagree strongly," said Hankins. He said staff planners should have their "levels of responsibility clearly written out for them" and that rezoning should be "considered on their own merit, not on who owns the land or why."

Planning Director B. D. Dobbs defended Kagi's remarks, saying that many issues are involved in any decision made by the commission and that all facts should be known.

"I don't consider the planning commissioners to be planners," said Dobbs. "They are laymen who must act in a judicial capacity."

Kagi told Hankins he "should remember" that there is more involved in planning than "cosmetics" or simple appearance of a site.

"Don't tell me what to remember!" retorted Hankins. Adolph S. Oko, Point Reyes See PLAN, page 4

Guilty Plea In Bank Theft, Kidnap

Robert Everett Leeps, 25, who left a job as a Los Angeles supermarket meat wrapper to try a life of crime, today pleaded guilty to a $52,693 San Francisco bank robbery and the Greenbrae kidnapping of the bank manager.

Leeps appeared in U.S. District Court for the surprise plea. He had previously pleaded not guilty, along with Jimmie Bee Workman, 26, to this and four other bank robbery charges, and had been scheduled to stand trial Feb. 18.

On motion of Asst. Atty. Frederick Woelflen, the other four counts against Leeps were dismissed by Judge George B. Harris. Leeps was ordered to appear for sentence March 8.

Since the charge includes kidnapping, Leeps faces a minimum 10-year prison sentence under federal law.

Woelflen disclosed that Leeps was the female impersonator among three men who robbed the Webster and Union streets branch of Bank of America of $52,693 on Nov. 10, 1961, after kidnapping the assistant cashier and his family from Millbrae and holding them hostage, along with the bank manager and his wife, in a Greenbrae home.

One of the others, the government contends, was Workman. The third robber has never been identified.

The three appeared at the home of the bank manager, Joseph A. Finnochio, at 3 Via La Cumbre, Greenbrae, the evening of Nov. 9. They held Finnochio and his wife as hostages. Leeps and one other drove to Millbrae to kidnap the assistant cashier, Henry Lupori, his wife and two children, and drove them to the Finnochio home. Then they took Lupori to the bank and forced him to open the vault.

Leeps was dressed as a woman and wore a red wig.

NICARAGUA VOTES AND FOUR DIE

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (P)—Three men and an infant were killed and eight persons were wounded as Nicaraguans voted yesterday to extend the Somoza family's 31-year rule of their Central American nation.

The clash between National Guardsmen and 300 anti-Somoza demonstrators erupted during cut-and-dried balloting which gave the presidency to Rene Schick Gutierrez, candidate of the Somoza-run Liberal party.

Dr. Fernando Aguero Rocha, opposition leader who had called for a boycott of the national elections, was placed under house arrest. He was charged with inciting demonstrators who battled with police and troops for three hours. Fifteen rioters also were jailed.

ORDER RESTORED

Order was restored after Aguero and the authorities declared a truce and the opposition leader agreed to remain under house arrest. Police dropped demands that Aguero go to jail after he agreed to advise his followers to give up the demonstrations.

Schick, an ex-professor who takes office May 1, was called a Somoza puppet by the opposition which claimed the family put him in to hold the seat until one of them could run again.

A new law prevented outgoing President Luis Somoza from succeeding himself or being succeeded by any member of his family.

Schick, 53, has insisted he will act independently, but he has spent most of his career serving the Somozas. His term as president expires in 1967.

ELECTION BOYCOTT

Schick's election was assured last December when Aguero decided his Conservative party would boycott the elections. He contended there were no guarantees for a genuine secret vote and an honest count.

Schick served as personal secretary to the late dictator, Gen. Anastasio Somoza, who was assassinated in 1956. When Somoza's son Luis succeeded him, Schick was named minister of education and later became foreign minister.

The voters also elected three vice presidents, 16 senators, 54 deputies and town councils throughout the country.

An insignificant opposition group, the Conservative Party of Nicaragua, led by Diego Manuel Chamorro, was trailing by a 10 to 1 margin. No matter what the final count, this party will receive one-third of the seats in the Chamber of Deputies. Nicaraguan law grants the minority that amount.

The Miss San Francisco Chinatown title was won by Ruth Lee, 18.

23 Persons Trampled To Death

GRANADILLA, Canary Islands (UPI)—Twenty-three persons were trampled to death and more than 100 injured yesterday when a crowd of farm men and women stampeded from a building they thought was collapsing.

Eighteen of the dead were women. Most of the victims were crushed in a tremendous jam of writhing human beings trying to get out the main door.

The crowd had come in from surrounding farms to get national identity cards.

Mount Everest Expedition Leaves

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—A fifteen-man expedition left here yesterday with the intention of becoming the first Americans ever to reach the top of the world's tallest peak, Mount Everest, 29,028 feet tall.

"Mount Everest, conquered only twice, is the toughest climb in the world," said group leader Dr. William E. Siri, as he boarded the plane that will carry the expedition part of the way to Katmandu, Nepal.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy was in New York City today for a visit with her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill.

The first lady stayed overnight at the Carlyle Hotel after lunching yesterday with her sister, brother-in-law and Charles Spalding, one of the president's close friends.

Pope Has Cold

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope John XXIII, recently recovered from a serious stomach ailment complicated by anemia, today battled a sore throat.

Ecuador Landslide

BIBLIAN, Ecuador (UPI)—A landslide struck this Andes mountains town yesterday shortly after a grief-stricken villagers had attended a mass funeral for 105 nuns and children who died when a school building collapsed.

A river of mud and rocks, triggered by the same winter storm which undermined the school building, plowed down a mountainside.

The landslide destroyed seven houses, but caused no casualties.

Two Die In Crash

FRESNO (P)—Two 18-year-old boys were killed yesterday as their automobile slammed into the middle of an 83-car Santa Fe freight train at a rural crossing between Caruthers and Laton, southwest of Fresno.

The Highway Patrol identified them as Alexander Alvarado of Burrell, near Caruthers, and Cruz Briceno of Caruthers.

Wreckage of the sports car was scattered for five miles along the right of way. The engineer of the Fresno-bound train didn't know the auto had hit him until the crew of a second train saw the twisted wreckage hours later.

Death In Holdup

RENO, Nev. (P)—An unemployed man was shot to death after he held up a gas station and used the loot—one dime—to tip police to the robbery.

Jerry Hobbs, 26, who police say made an unsuccessful suicide attempt last week was waiting for officers when they arrived.

Police say that when they shouted to him and fired a warning shot Hobbs walked to the door and pulled out a gun.

Officer Ron Haskell fired three shots, one of which caught Hobbs in the throat. He died in a hospital a short time later.

The station attendant, Doug Penrod, 21, said Hobbs demanded and got a dime, then gave it back to him with instructions to call police.

Penrod quoted Hobbs: "I hope they do a good job when they get here."

Rocky Attacks

ALBANY, N.Y. (P)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has stepped up the intensity of his attacks on President John F. Kennedy, apparently heralding a new phase of what most observers consider a Rockefeller bid for the 1964 Republican nomination for president.

In a weekend visit the governor made to Newark, N.J., his first out-of-state political visit since his re-election, Rockefeller charged the Kennedy administration with "disaster failure" in such key areas as improving the national economy and furthering civil rights.

MARIN SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL

Britain Wins Mart Backing From Fanfani

LONDON (P)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has returned home from a three-day visit to Rome with a solid Italian backing for Britain's campaign to join the Common Market despite President Charles de Gaulle's opposition.

Macmillan appeared heartened by assurances that Premier Amintore Fanfani will work with other European leaders to override the French veto of Britain's bid to join the European Economic Community.

"I have been very much encouraged by the unanimity of the Italian and British points of view," Macmillan told newsmen in Rome. "A setback is not the end of the journey."

In a clear allusion to De Gaulle, Macmillan said there have been times in Europe's history when one nation or one man tried to exert control, but Britain is convinced such times are past.

In their three long talks, Macmillan and Fanfani discussed ways to keep the Western alliance from buckling under De Gaulle's efforts to reduce American influence in European affairs.

In a communique they deplored the breakdown in the Brussels negotiations and agreed that efforts should be made to salvage the drive for European unity despite the setback.

The communique expressed support for President John F. Kennedy's plan for a multinational nuclear NATO force which De Gaulle also has rejected.

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, a man with a satchel full of information, is keeping the Kennedy administration hopping over time with his charges of a Soviet arms buildup in Cuba.

For more than six months the white-haired, ruddy-faced New York Republican has been rising in the Senate to announce ominous Communist developments in Cuba. Time and again the Pentagon and State Department have challenged his information, only to have to concede later that Keating was at least basically right.

Last night Keating claimed in a television interview that total Soviet military strength—soldiers, weapons and equipment—is now 10 times greater than it was estimated to be last July 1, even conceding that Soviet offensive missiles have been removed from the island.

Assistant Secretary of State Edwin Martin, who appeared on ABC "Issues and Answers" with Keating, cautioned that estimates of Soviet troops in Cuba last July were not too accurate but said Keating's claim "is within the range of possibility."

Last week Keating told the Senate there is "continuing, absolutely confirmed and undeniable evidence that the Soviets are maintaining" the missile bases that were involved in last October's quarantine crisis.

He said he believes that is

"the very real possibility" that the Soviets either hope to re-

SEN. KENNETH B. KEATING Buildup in Cuba?

have missiles left there "and need only to wheel them out of caves."

Keating's charge that the bases have not been dismantled was challenged promptly by the Defense Department and White House press secretary Pierre Salinger.

Keating's colleagues know him as a merry fellow, quick with a quip, a pleasant companion. Some of them are aware that he is a setting up exercise enthusiast, that he drinks a health concoction of honey and vinegar each morning. They have heard him growl about the quality of the low-calorie luncheon in the Senate restaurant.

They know he is a staunch advocate of civil rights. But they have observed in him no overt Republican partisanship. They have difficulty in clothing him with a crusader's trappings.

Where does he get his information? With the possible exception of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, Keating is not a member of any committee in which intelligence information would be available to him.

Keating won't tell where he gets the information that has proved to be remarkably correct in several critical instances.

He insists, however, that it does not come primarily from refugee sources, which he regards as generally unreliable. He has contended over and over again that the government has the same information he has "and a lot more."

As a brigadier general in the Army Reserve, after service in two world wars, Keating has many friends in uniform. He declines to put a finger on them. He says he first got interested last August when people who had become involved in the Cuban situation began talking to him about it.

Cossacks are a pastoral people who developed a warlike way of life. Their name derives from a Turkish word meaning adventurer or disturber of the peace.

ELECTION FEVER SWEEPING CANADA

OTTAWA (P)—Election fever swept Canada today as a showdown neared in the political crisis brought to a head by public U.S. demands for the Canadian government to accept nuclear weapons.

After a weekend of rumor and uncertainty, almost everyone in Ottawa agreed that the present Parliament—elected last June 18—has just about seen its last days.

It appeared to be a tossup whether Prime Minister John Diefenbaker would dissolve Parliament and call an election or whether the three opposition parties would unite to bring down the government with a vote of no-confidence.

Diefenbaker's Conservative Party came out 17 seats short of a majority in last June's election. One of the three opposition parties, Social Credit, has thrown its votes to the government in the past to keep it from defeat.

Diefenbaker is said to be resigned to a new election this spring. He is not happy with his efforts to carry on without a clear-cut majority.

The government had been under fire from the opposition parties for its defense policies even before the U.S. State Department said last Wednesday that Canada was dragging its feet on accepting nuclear warheads for U.S.-supplied Bomarc missiles and for rockets on Voodoo interceptor jets at home and in Europe.

Baker Chorale Gives Impressive Concert

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

The Winifred Baker Chorale's annual winter concert was presented Saturday night before an audience of more than 400 in Angelico Hall of Dominican College, San Rafael.

At this opening of its fifth season, devotees of the fine chorale found this a satisfying measure of progress compared with the first audience that numbered less than the 47-voice chorus (it now has nearly 70 voices).

By far the most impressive choral singing was in the concluding contemporary work, "Missa Brevis" by Kodaly, in which the organ-like tone was greatly enhanced by the organ accompaniment of Ludwig Altman. Most of the choral virtues were achieved, especially in some stirring climaxes. And the trio of Marion Swartz, Jo Ann Schow and Diane Lloyd was outstanding.

The chorus was not so effective in the opening "Acis and Galatea" by Handel. One reason may have been that direction was from the floor of the auditorium instead of the stage, thus sacrificing to some extent director-chorus rapport.

Effective was Mrs. Baker's assigning each of the leading roles to several singers, thereby offering more opportunities for solo experience while testing potentialities in the many capacities needed for solo stature other than talent. With a strong soprano section and a soprano role requiring many different kinds of vocal qualities, it was a good device. The various sopranos were admirably assigned arias suited to their voices.

Outstanding among them was Marion Swartz. The others were Jo Ann Schow, Selma Brix, Gloria Cazneau, Diane Lloyd, Jackie Hall and Mary Anne Kolanoski.

Of the men, most successful were bass M. Judson Machy and tenor John Gibb. Baritone Cary Barford had an off night from his usual good performance.

Margery Bagshaw was a very good piano accompanist.

Tools Worth $800 Stolen From Firm

Tools and equipment, valued at $800, were stolen Friday night from the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. supply yard at 247 Shoreline Drive, Tamalpais Valley, by three thieves who backed a pickup truck up to the wire fence.

Foreman James A. Holmes reported the theft to the Marin County sheriff's office Saturday.

Sheriff's deputies, checking mud tracks in the area, guessed that a truck had been backed up to the fence and three persons had jumped over the fence from the truck.

Is This Fireman Chief Or Chef?

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Battalion Chief Edward W. Gallagher of the St. Louis Fire Department has a way with flames, whether they be on a burning building or in the oven.

Chief Gallagher won the Missouri championship this year in a national men's cooking competition.

The chief won with a culinary creation called "Lobster Chip Boog-A-Roo."

He said the name "Boog-A-Roo" is one he thought up 30 years ago "for a type of slumgullion I fixed for the fellows at the fire house. I put the name to the lobster dish because I couldn't think of any other."

Lives Near Ocean Without Seeing Surf

CHINCOTEAGUE, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Ralph Shreeves has lived her life close to the sea without being able to see the surf until recently.

The only way she could get there was by boat. When the Assateague Bridge and Beach Authority opened a road and a four-span bridge across Assateague channel, Mrs. Shreeves walked the four miles to the beach and another four miles back just to take a look.

$3.25 Budget Biggest Of Any State In U.S.

dollars next year. Brown said in his message, and 151 million dollars in 1964. The step-up in tax dates, he said, would be enough to balance the budget "soundly but narrowly," and still leave a 3.6 surplus dollars next year.

Here's what the program involves:

1. End installment payments on bank and corporation, personal income and insurance taxes after Jan. 1, 1964.
2. Start withholding personal income taxes after July 1, 1964. The plan contemplates forgiving 25 per cent of what's due on 1964 incomes because Californians will be paying the tax twice in one year.
3. Adopt new federal limitations on business deductions for gifts, entertainment, club dues and the like, and conform to federal law on gift taxes.
4. Require insurance companies to pay their taxes quarterly, instead of annually, beginning Jan. 1, 1964.

"If the entire revenue program proposed above is enacted," the governor said, "California will be able to meet its fiscal commitments without hardship through the next two fiscal years."

"The state of California can no longer afford the luxury of permitting payment of some taxes more than a year after it must meet the cost of providing essential services," Brown cited the fact that the federal government and 26 of the 32 states with a personal income tax already rely on withholding to collect the levy.

The 25 per cent forgiveness favored by the governor would amount to 85 million dollars for individuals and add up to a 65-million-dollar tax credit for banks and corporations. The 1200-word printed budget provides 963.2 million dollars for state operations, 635.2 million dollars for building, including highways; and 1.652 billion dollars for local assistance.

Education alone accounts for 1.2 billion dollars. This includes $45 billion dollars in state aid to local schools. Enrollment growth boosted state support by 43 million dollars, and it's on top of the constitutional guarantees that the schools would get 30 million dollars more under Brown's program.

However, the governor told the legislature it should not vote the extra money unless it also enacts a countywide school tax plan that would produce still another $25 million a year. Brown noted that state tide-land oil revenue has been coming in faster than anticipated, and suggested the transfer of 26 million dollars in royalties to education.

He recommended, too, that the state water fund be guaranteed 9 million dollars from the same source.

The budget seeks funds for 7,157 new positions, pushing the number of state employees to 136,000. Noting the record of 4,106 traffic fatalities last year, the governor asked for 75 more highway patrolmen and seven sergeants.

In earmarking 30.7 million dollars for pay raises, Brown cut the amount recommended by the State Personnel Board in half. It would provide a 5 per cent increase for an under-termined number of civil service workers and for academic staffs of the university and state colleges.

Head Trusty Takes Count, Then Leaves

Bruce Evan Stockwell, 25, of Oakland, head trusty at Marin County Jail, helped jailers take a head count of inmates yesterday morning and found everything in order.

Then he apparently strolled out the front door after making sure his fellow inmates were all present and accounted for. Jailor Robert Scheiner, busy with making bail arrangements, had trusty Stockwell helping him. After completing the bail arrangements, Scheiner looked up and found his trusty was gone. Stockwell was serving a year in jail for car theft.

Stockwell was wearing casual black sweater and black slacks because the jail had run out of denim uniforms.

Undersheriff Eugene Meyer issued an all-points bulletin for Stockwell, who is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs about 170 pounds. He wears a small mustache.

TAX

His tax would be $90, so he'd owe the state $6.80.

With $10,000 earnings, the withholding would be $3 a week of $156 for the year. His tax would be $170, so he'd owe $14.

The state says that total tax obligations under $1 need not be paid. However, any amount over $1 remaining after withholding would have to be paid in full.

For example, if the tax remaining after withholding was 25 cents the state would disregard it, but if it were $1.25 the amount would have to be paid in full.

Installment payments on personal income taxes would be ended, and banks, corporations and insurance companies would pay their taxes on a current basis instead of by installments the following year.

SAN JOSE (P)—Disclosure that Dr. Geza deKaplany fathered a son out of wedlock before his marriage was made by the defense today at his trial for the acid-torture death of his bride.

The admission by the 36-year-old hospital anesthetist was introduced in a tape-recorded interview made last Wednesday with Dr. A. Russell Lee, of the Palo Alto Mental Research Institute.

The former Hungarian freedom fighter has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. He contends he has a split personality and that his "other self" killed Hajna Piller deKaplany, 25.

In the tape recording played today, he told Dr. Lee it was his other self, a Pierre La Roche, ill-tempered, cruel, who fathered the son.

Dr. deKaplany said he offered the boy's mother financial aid, she eventually married and "has returned to Europe."

Station real estate broker, representing Mrs. Copp, made a long appeal to the commission to act on rezoning without waiting for completion of the master plan.

"Justice delayed is justice denied," said Oko. "The delays which we are experiencing in Inverness just kick us economically in the head."

Quoting Lewis Mumford, Oko said planning's purpose was not to aid mere schemes but to benefit man. "To be neglected in planning is not a condition which we welcome," he said, "but to be made to await planning is a tremendous burden."

Dobbs said public hearings on the master plan should be under way by June or July.

Hankins, however, said further delay was a "punishment" and moved approval. Commissioners Niels Schultz Jr. and George Scott voted with him, but Upton, Felix M. Warburg and Charles R. Johnson voted against. Commissioner Edward C. Wachsman was absent.

The rezoning was protested by the Inverness Improvement Assn., which asked that it be continued until completion of the master plan.

Planners Continue Marinwood Hearings

A public hearing on Marinwood Master Plan amendments to allow development of nearly 700 apartments on Miller Creek Road near Highway 101 was continued by the Marin County Planning Commission today to give Marinwood residents and developers a chance to settle disagreements.

"We met Saturday morning with directors of the Marinwood Assn.," Ben Ostlund of Coldwell, Banker and Co. told the commission, "and we would like to meet again before any action is taken on this."

The Marinwood Assn. had protested what it called "high density" apartments in the area.

Guy E. Baty said association directors, and Marinwood community services district directors will meet with the developers Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Mary E. Silveira school. The commission continued the hearing until Feb. 18.

Jury Retires To Decide Fate Of Gomez In Gem Trial

A jury of eight women and four men this afternoon retired to decide who was telling the truth in the San Francisco robbery-conspiracy trial of jeweler J. Robert Gomez of Mill Valley, accused of being the mastermind in a $112,000 robbery ring.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Keith Varni wound up his closing argument at about 11 a.m., after which Superior Court Judge Norman T. Elkington read his instructions to the jury.

Twenty witnesses were called during the two-week trial, but the jurors basically will have their choice between the stories of Matt Davis of Larkspur, admitted member of the robbery ring, and James Ribero, Davis' former cellmate.

Davis testified that he was the link between Gomez and David Windham, who is now serving a prison term for the robberies of Mrs. Muriel M. Sonne and Joseph Glikberg.

Ribero, however, told the jury that Davis said he planned to frame Gomez to earn a lighter sentence. Davis served three months in San Francisco City Prison for his part in the crimes.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Emphysema Of The Lungs On Rise; Victims Number 10 Million In U.S.

From time to time we mention the fact that emphysema of the lungs is on the rise. The number of victims in this country has climbed to 10 million. There also has been an increase of more than 300 per cent in the reported deaths. The Social Security administration bears out these statistics in that emphysema is second only to heart disease as a cause of disability among workers in their fifth and sixth decades.

VAN DELLEN

The air spaces of those with emphysema are overinflated. In addition, the flow of air through the bronchi is partially obstructed and the blood supply to the walls of each sac is not normal. This adds up to a handicapped lung because stagnant air accumulates in the organs and the ensuing lack of oxygen causes shortness of breath.

THE OBSTRUCTION keeps out fresh air and causes secretions to accumulate which in turn invite infection. This explains why the victim coughs so often and develops fresh colds. But even when oxygen is available, the poor circulation through the lung tissues interferes with the absorption of oxygen and the release of carbon dioxide.

The cause of this lung disease is not known except that air pollution, including smoking, plays a role. But the picture is not as dark as it appears because remedies are available. Dr. Theodore H. Noehren of Buffalo, N.Y., recently listed 23 different plans of treatment.

THE ANTIBIOTICS are most useful in the control of infections. They can be administered in tablets or via injections or aerosol pathways. Bronchodilators relax the air passage-ways to combat infection, cough, and the irritation from smoke and secretions. These are most effective. The expectorants, such as potassium iodide, liquefy the secretions, making them easier to expel.

Mechanical assistance is obtained by the use of intermittent positive pressure breathing. This device often is combined with an aerosol bronchodilator. Other ventilation aids are available to help expand the chest and eliminate stagnant air. Breathing exercises are useful. In some instances an abdominal support is helpful. Using the lungs also is of value, even though it means carrying around a portable oxygen tank. Many victims respond to a warm, dry climate, the avoidance of irritation, particularly from tobacco, the control of allergies, developing equanimity, and learning to live with the disease.

STUNTED GROWTH

F. M. writes: Do the genes have anything to do with the birth of midgets and dwarfs?

REPLY

Yes, especially for midgets but not necessarily for dwarfs. The pituitary gland plays a role in the latter. Growth also is retarded in some children because of kidney trouble (renal dwarfism).

VITAMINS AND VEINS

No, and the same can be said of vitamins A, B, C, and D. Varicosities stem from an inherent weakness of the walls of the veins.

One Dies As Air Force Plane Crashes In Utah

HILL AIR FORCE BASE, Utah (AP) — One person was killed and 19 injured when an Air Force transport plane crashed shortly after take-off early today.

One of those aboard the craft, a two-engine C-131, was Maj. Gen. Don Coupland, commander of the Ogden Air Materiel Area. Officials said he was injured.

The injured were taken to the base hospital.

The Air Force said all passengers were Air Force and civilian personnel from Hill AFB, en route to Norton Air Force Base near San Bernardino for conferences.

The plane crashed in a wooded hilly area about three miles from the field, near the base of the Wasatch Mountains. There are residences in the area but none were endangered.

Brakeless Bike Rams Into Auto

A Terra Linda High School student who put his bicycle together without brakes suffered minor cuts and bruises yesterday by ramming an automobile.

Edmund J. Obiedo, 16, of 202 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, westbound on his newly reassembled bike on North San Pedro Road just east of Roosevelt Avenue, skirted left to pass a car driven by Mrs. Una May Sherman of 500 Vendola Drive. But Mrs. Sherman was turning left into Roosevelt Avenue. The bicycle hit the left side of her vehicle.

Obiedo told the California Highway Patrol he had neglected to connect the rear-wheel brakes of his cycle. He declined hospitalization.

Mother's March Due To Continue For Week

The Marin County Mothers' March for the March of Dimes had brought in about $15,000 today in spite of bad weather, said chairman Mrs. Walter F. Johnson of San Anselmo.

"Due to the inclement weather, we have extended the drive," said Mrs. Johnson. "We expect to continue through the week."

Last year's total for the mothers' march was $21,000. Mrs. Johnson said she hopes this year's drive will surpass that, but she could not predict results yet because of the unusual conditions.

Most of the mothers went out during the weekend to solicit funds. Others will make their rounds as best they can.

Board To Discuss Library System

Withdrawal of school districts from the Marin County school library system will be discussed at a meeting of the county board of education tonight at 8 o'clock at the Civic Center.

County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis will report to the board on withdrawal of Novato unified and Dixie school districts. He will also present proposed "long range planning" for district libraries and the county system.

Pier For Ferry Still Unrepaired

Ferry boat commuters from Tiburon to San Francisco will spend at least another week crossing San Francisco Bay by bridge instead of water.

The broken pier at the dock restaurant in Tiburon, where commuters boarded the ferry, will not be rebuilt for more than a week, according to Donald Altenburg, restaurant manager.

Altenburg said repairing the pier, which split in two last Wednesday during the storm, is a major job and may mean redesigning the pier.

Governor's Budget Message Has Own Head Whirling

We've just gone through Governor Brown's budget message to the legislature and frankly our head is whirling.

As we understand it, the state's taxpayers will have no new taxes this year—all we'll be expected to do is to pay taxes as before plus three quarters of the next year. After that it'll be easy; they'll just deduct it out of our pay checks and you don't have to worry about it any more.

That "25 per cent forgiveness" the governor graciously gave us (you only have to pay three quarters of that extra year's taxes, not all of it), "is justified nonetheless," he says, even though he isn't going to "increase" our taxes.

The governor explains the need for instant taxes by citing the example of a man who comes into California in January and requires services immediately but doesn't have to pay his income taxes until a year and a half or two later.

We have news for you, governor. The minute that man comes into this state he starts paying taxes. You remember sales taxes? They bring in much more of your budget than income taxes. How about license fees on his car, even to get a permit to drive? Doesn't he pay his gasoline taxes and his cigarette taxes, and a score or more other taxes?

There may be a number of good reasons, governor, why we should have a withholding tax, but that example was for the birds.

And that business about the state being able to withhold taxes on their employees' salaries for only 30 cents per year per employee. How many businesses, governor, do you think have 130,000 employees like the state and all those big electronic machines to do everything including sign the checks?

Governor, a small, even a medium sized businessman would have to pay a girl more than 30 cents just to pull an employee's card out of the file and put it back in again 52 times even if she didn't have to figure the withholding tax. But then, we forget. The state doesn't pay weekly or semi-weekly, does it, governor. Only businessmen are forced to do that. The mighty state pays only monthly. She'd only have to pull it out 12 times.

Actually we're sorry, governor, that your speech upset us so. We're more anxious than anyone we know of to have you get the business of our state down onto solid, responsible foundations. We think you'd like to do it. There are many things in your budget we can and will support.

But, governor, let's face facts as they are, not as in a dream world. Our economy must survive whether President Kennedy gets his tax cut or not. Gaps of $150 and $100 million between state revenue and expenditures don't just disappear. We hope you have advisors somewhere who will tell you so.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

ARE YOU AN IMPULSIVE BUYER?

A quick stop at a neighborhood shopping center proved to be budget shattering for a Washington, D. C., housewife.

Her original plan had been to spend $5 on a white shirt for her son and a package of invitations for her daughter's birthday party.

By the end of an hour, she had succeeded in running up charges of over $50. It was all very easy. She happened upon a lamp sale and couldn't resist a bargain pair for $25. Then she saw a sport coat which would be just the thing for her son.

But after the buying spree was over, she realized that she really didn't need the purchases. She had a perfectly good pair of living room lamps and her son had plenty of clothes.

Avoid acting on thoughtless impulse and you will save much more than money. God expects you to be the master of every circumstance in which you find yourself, whether it involves your spiritual or material well-being.

"If you have risen with Christ seek the things that are above." (Colossians 3:1)

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Blood Test Law Invades Rights

EDITOR,

Independent-Journal:
Enclosed is a carbon copy of a letter sent to William T. Bagley, our state assemblyman:

Hon. Wm. T. Bagley
State Assembly
Sacramento

Your current legislative proposal to force driver's license applicants to sign statements agreeing to blood tests if suspected of drunken driving, would have the effect of making sobriety tests compulsive in the State of California. It is cause for great concern.

I feel that you, like all too many elected officials in recent years, have sought to circumvent Constitutional guarantees in an effort to achieve what is generally considered to be a laudable goal. Protection of the accused, and the assignment of the burden of proof to the state, rather than the automatic assumption of guilt, are among our most precious rights. In Rochin vs. California, 342 U.S. 165, 172, the Supreme Court held that pumping a man's stomach against his will in an effort to obtain evidence is in violation of the Fifth Amendment, and "shocks the conscience." Similarly, your legislation to force submission to blood tests as a condition of acceptance of a driver's license infringes on our rights under the Fifth Amendment, as it takes away the right of free choice on the part of the accused.

I don't wish to condone drunken driving, Senator Bagley; I merely feel that the end does not justify the means. We live in a dangerous, active, crowded world; but the dangers of losing our personal freedoms, and our human rights, have increased far more rapidly than the dangers of our death at the hands of drunken drivers. The need for the protection of the individual's rights of privacy, advice of counsel, and protection against forced disclosure of self-incriminating evidence are worth considerable discomfort and sacrifice. Thousands of Americans have died on battlefields to protect these rights.

A further point of protest against your proposal is that it could give police forces considerable powers of harassment over an individual or group. Anyone who incurred the disfavor of an individual officer or group of police could be stopped on sight and forced to take a painful and time-consuming test, with no recourse except expensive and useless false-arrest proceedings after each test.

I was once the driver of an automobile totally demolished by an uninsured drunk driver, and still think bitterly about the incident. But I also once learned, believed in, and came to love the principles espoused in our Federal Constitution. Without strict observation of these values, we in the United States have very little to sell the rest of the world, and very little to live for. I urge you to reconsider your proposals, and to redirect your efforts into legislation enforcing, rather than circumventing, constitutional guarantees.

Can't Fool All GOP All The Time

EDITOR,

Independent-Journal:

There was recently handed to me an Open Letter To All Democrats bearing the title "What Price Victory?" That seems to me to be a very pertinent question, as the price to Marin citizens of the recent election is censorship of the news . . .

I refer to the letters which flew around the county during the last election campaign. Your news columns, political columns and editorials mentioned several of the letters and called them "infamy." Infamy?—oh, come, now!

But the letter you carefully neglected to mention was the Open Letter To All Democrats. "What Price Victory?" it said, and went on to extol insofar as possible the virtues of the Republican candidate. But, curiously, it was not signed. Whoever wrote it didn't even have the strength of character to put his name to it.

If you had reported that letter, would you have called it infamous? Perhaps that's why you didn't report it. But please stop claiming that you're serving all of Marin.

I am further bemused by a column of Chip Day's referring to a public outcry about the "infamous" letters, since the "public" outcry consisted only of that which appeared in your own columns plus that which was spouted on partisan platforms by the persons responsible for the unsigned, unmentioned What Price Victory letter to Democrats.

I am aware that this is how "news" is created. I wonder if you are aware that you can't fool all the people all of the time—not even all the Republicans.

Imagine Outhouses In Strawberry! Best Sneak Out On Arithmetic

The trouble with writing is that everything has been said before. Few people realize this. This is not true of the plumbing, arithmetic or restaurant trades. They always seem to find new angles.

Take Mrs. Albert Lazzarini, who telephoned the other wet day and said she was one of the "Strawberry refugees" who had been without plumbing for three days.

Alas, we said, what do you do? She replied, "We don't do." But she added the Strawberryans are contemplating a portable outhouse. Can you imagine outhouses in sophisticated Strawberry? On the Tiburon peninsula? However, Mrs. Lazzarini was quite philosophical.

THE OTHER night we went to a parents' class in arithmetic given by Bill Castelli. Everything was new, even the eraser which Castelli held in his hand was four times as long as the erasers we had in school. Scott-Foresman, said the teacher. Fractions, rate, comparison, percentage. Then "class," he said beckoning with his hand, and we couldn't answer.

He took off his jacket and said something about trial divisors, decimals, products, factors and inversion. Three out of 33 raised their hands. It was surprising how much we had forgotten. But of course so much of this was new. "Class?" he said, as we sneaked out.

UP TO BAT last Tuesday at Sausalito City Council meeting was Sally Stanford, restaurateur.

She spoke in plain words of her shimmering sign and how the wind blew off most of the shimmers and how she refused to pay for the sign because it was losing its shimmer. Shimmer is a new slant in restauranting, we said, but as for writing, we were still left the same old stories.

Kay Ksanda sat in the next to the last row and sketched Sally and other personages. J. Walter Blair was there. Albert Weiner was there.

In a rather informal way,

Sally told each councilman what business he was in, then mentioned sales tax and what her business is and why she needs a sign.

Then, suddenly, things became very formal. Mayor Paul Micou said to Miss Stanford, "Thank you for being here" and Miss Stanford replied with a little bow, "I'll be here more often from now on." The dialogue is so good in Sausalito.

RUSS PAPHENHAUSE was actually up to bat first and aided this writer by changing an old cliché. Instead of saying "the chips are down," Russ said "the chips are out so we'll have to let them drop where they will drop."

One of the players, William Remak, said he was against any Brown Derbies and peanuts roasting in the streets on Bridgeway. But he felt maybe the word "shimmering" was open to a lot of interpretation.

"This is a blanket indictment of any sign freshly painted that would reflect sunlight," said he. "The golden pretzel above Ole's Bakery shimmers," he said. He also objected to the proposed restriction against moving signs and asked, "Have you walked by Henry's barber pole and seen it moving?"

WE TALKED to Eddie Giesecke on our last windy Thursday and asked how things were over his way.

"I have been watching these seagulls down here," said Eddie, who works at the Mill Valley corporation yard, "and they can't even fly it's so windy."

W. R. GORDON claims he is the oldest book borrower at the Mill Valley Public Library.

"I'm 81," says he.

Gordon, a Scot, says he used to get books at a library in Edinburgh which, like Mill Valley's, was started by Andrew Carnegie.

"The Mill Valley steps are terrible," he said. "I wouldn't climb them if I weren't so eager to get books."

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Too Many Seek Explanation Rather Than Reform Of Congress Inequity

WASHINGTON—When this column recently produced election statistics to show that the Republican Party got far fewer seats in Congress than it earned at the polls, the tendency of some was to look to a theoretical explanation rather than to the needed reform.

It is, of course, quite true that in any one state one political party could win 51 per cent of the votes in each congressional district and thereby take 100 per cent of the congressional seats. But this result would normally even out on a national basis—other things being equal.

But other things are not equal. There is a widespread malformation of the congressional districts themselves, and it is this distortion which primarily brings the distorted results.

IT IS QUITE TRUE that in some instances the distortion in congressional districting favors the Republican Party. A good example is what happened in Ohio last November. As the Akron Beacon-Journal has pointed out, in the 23 districts of Ohio the Republicans received 55.8 per cent of the congressional votes and won 73 per cent of the congressional seats.

But in the main and on balance across the nation the disparity of population of the congressional districts in the same state is to the disadvantage of the Republican Party and to the advantage of the Democratic Party.

TWO FACTS FROM the latest congressional elections show why this is the case:

1—It was necessary for the Republican Party to win 37,000 more votes last November for every seat it got in Congress than the Democratic Party had to win for each seat it got in Congress.

2—A great deal of the Republican voting strength was concentrated in the oversized congressional districts. Democratic votes, by contrast, were often spread out in thinly populated districts. The undersized districts (15 per cent below the norm of equal population) were nearly 3-to-1 to the advantage of the Democrats.

These circumstances contributed most to causing the Republicans to get 33 seats fewer than their percentage of the total vote earned them.

THERE ARE SEVERAL avenues of reform which are open:

1—The facts should be put into the hands of every governor and every state legislator in the nation, because only the state legislatures can take corrective action.

2—A uniform congressional redistricting statute to bring every congressional district into balance could be submitted to the next Governors' Conference.

3—The Republican leadership in Congress could put the issue before the Advisory Commission in Inter-governmental Relationships which has already recommended state legislative redistricting to end discrimination against the larger cities.

Finally, many have viewed the Supreme Court decision requiring the redistricting of state legislatures as a radical violation of state's rights. It can lead to a conservative restoration of state's rights since it will promote more responsive and animate state government.

S. Rhodesia Principal Fears Independence For Area Now

By RICHARD CARBONEAU

Independence now for Southern Rhodesia might produce "another Congo," Herbert T. Ramushu, visiting African school principal told a gathering in Marin Saturday.

Ramushu spoke at a discussion at Redwood High School in Larkspur, sponsored by the School Affiliation Service of the American Friends Service Committee. He is studying and observing American schools during a year's visit under U.S. auspices. He is principal of the Rusununguko Elementary School in Southern Rhodesia, which is the SAS "partner" of Lagunitas School.

About 50 students and others interested in the SAS program attended the all-day conference.

Ramushu described his country, its schools, economy and climate, and touched on the issue of Southern Rhodesian independence and the problems involved in it.

Lack of education among the three-million Africans in the British colony is the principal barrier to self-rule, he said. Two-thirds of the Africans have never attended school and can neither read nor write. To vote, a Southern Rhodesian must be able to read and write, must have an eighth grade education and an income of about $720 per year.

The 221,000 white residents of Southern Rhodesia have no difficulty fulfilling the voting qualifications, he said. Education for them is compulsory and free; for Africans it is optional and seldom free. The schools, like the communities, are segregated.

Ninety per cent of the schools in his country were built by missionaries of American and European churches, Ramushu said. The government, however, pays the teachers. Ramushu's school, located in Salisbury, is a government school. It has 24 classrooms for 1,072 students. Ramushu said the country is short of both schools and teachers.

The Nationalist Party, which Ramushu said is composed of "extremists," is agitating for immediate independence.

Nigeria, Ghana, Uganda and Tanganyika, all former British colonies, had no problem gaining their independence, said Ramushu, because they had no white residents except governmental employees who served two-year terms and went home. He said Southern Rhodesia's temperate climate has made it more attractive to white settlers. Marin County's climate, Ramushu said, reminded him very much of his country.

Ramushu said he was impressed by the different educational approach in America and Southern Rhodesian schools.

The relationship between children and teachers is based on love in the United States, he said. "We are using the wrong approach. We used rigid discipline. You cannot win cooperation this way. Children do not become responsible."

Ramushu spent today at the Lagunitas School, visiting classrooms in the morning, lunching with the children and meeting with teachers in the afternoon. He will conclude his Marin visit tomorrow by meeting with teachers at Sir Francis Drake and Tamalpais high schools.

Other speakers Saturday described the origin of the school affiliation program, under which American schools form social, cultural and educational "partnerships" with schools in other countries.

Maisie Forell, a former SAS coordinator, said the service was founded in 1946 and that under it, more than 500 students, teachers and school administrators have lived and worked under an exchange program.

The SAS is only one phase of the work of the American Friends Service Committee, said Russell Jorgensen, finance secretary. The committee was founded to relieve human suffering by non-violent means. He said the work appeals to persons who are religiously opposed to war, and in some respects is similar to the Peace Corps.

Youth Rams, Cuts Arm In Anger

Donald Cox, 21, of 16 Myrtle Lane, San Anselmo, was under treatment at Marin General Hospital today for severe cuts on his right arm after he put his fist through a window at his home, according to San Anselmo police.

Cox told officers he had an argument with his younger brother last night and in anger, drove his fist through the window. He cut eight tendons, a muscle, a nerve and the main artery.

Cox's condition today was satisfactory, hospital attendants said.

Two 14-year-old Novato boys were cited to juvenile authorities yesterday on charges of attempted rape of a 12-year-old girl.

The girl and a 13-year-old companion were attacked by the boys in the creek behind Rancho school, according to police. The older girl escaped and spread the alarm. The boys were arrested before the rape had been committed, police reported.

Frightening Asthma Attacks End In Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots Or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed.

New York, N.Y. (Special)—A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast.

Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma—the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This formula is so safe when used as directed, it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONITIN®.

Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs and less and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONITIN, with two asthma relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs. The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep. Get BRONITIN—available at all drug stores without prescription.

Dr. Robert L. Taylor, 63, a San Anselmo dentist, shot himself through the lower and upper jaw yesterday afternoon with a .22-caliber rifle, San Anselmo police said today.

Chief Raymond R. Buchignani said Dr. Taylor, his face bleeding, came into the house from the garage at his 411 Laurel Avenue home and told his wife he had just shot himself. He was taken to Marin General Hospital by C. E. Clute of 84 Melville Avenue.

The bullet entered Dr. Taylor's chin and emerged from his upper jaw just below his nose, Buchignani said. His condition was reported as satisfactory today.

Buchignani said Dr. Taylor had been in ill health for the past year.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You Must Learn To Read Minds If You Want To Win At Bridge

Since a good bridge player has to be a mindreader, this column aims to teach you something about reading minds.

In either case, it pays to lead a trump from the South hand to try a finesse with dummy's ten.

As the cards lie in today's hand, this finesse is necessary if you want to make the contract.

You win the first heart in dummy and return a trump to the ace. East plays the queen of spades, and you must try to read his mind. Did he start with the singleton queen or with the doubleton Q-J?

If East is a beginner, his queen must be a singleton, since he wouldn't waste the queen if he also had the jack. If East is somewhat more advanced, he always plays the queen from the doubleton Q-J in the hope of deceiving you.

How should you play today's hand if East is a good player?

MATHEMATICALLY

Mathematically, the two cases are nearly equal. If East has the doubleton Q-J, however, he tends to play the queen only about 34 times out of the 68 times that he holds the combination.

The odds are roughly 62 to 34 in favor of the singleton queen if East is good enough to mix his shots.

Actually, most players tend to play the jack more often than the queen from the doubleton Q-J because of some vague fear of betraying themselves.

TRUE ODDS

The true odds are therefore about 62 to 20 that the queen is a singleton. If East had played the jack, the odds would be about 62 to 48 that the jack was a singleton.

$7.8 Million For Highway Construction

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO—Two major and a half dozen other state highway projects totaling $7,898,108 will be constructed in Marin County in the next fiscal year, according to the state budget.

The projects, which already have the approval of the State Highway Commission and are not subject to change by the legislature, all had previously been announced.

The two major ones are the 3.5-million-dollar improvement of Highway 101 north from the Marinwood overpass to beyond the Gallinas Village turnoff, including structures at Hamilton Air Force Base, and a four-million-dollar project to construct a new interchange at the intersection of Highway 101 and the Black Point cutoff. The projects will eliminate the last of the stop lights between San Francisco and Novato.

Other projects include: Resurfacing and shoulders north of Novato, $13,500; landscaping of portions of 101 from Waldo undercrossing to Marinwood, $70,190; additional work and landscaping at Vista Point at the Marin end of the Golden Gate Bridge, $162,253; for one mile of Highway 101 within Lincoln Avenue undercrossing to San Pedro Road, $36,207; paving and drainage of Highway 1 from Stinson Beach to Bolinas Road, $100,000; improve drainage Olema to Point Reyes Station, $10,958.

NEW 'WALLS' — Workmen from United States Steel Corp.'s Cyclone Fence construction department put up part of 4,400 feet of extra heavy fencing to enclose San Quentin's new athletic field.

Athletic Facilities Being Built Outside Quentin Walls

Athletic facilities for San Quentin inmates are being constructed outside the main walls of the prison.

Double fences, 12 feet apart and 13 feet high, were put up by workmen this week west of the industrial area of the prison to enclose new football and baseball fields.

The present athletic field inside the walls, according to Associate Warden Dale Frady, will be the site for academic and vocational education buildings under the 10-year expansion plan for the prison.

Frady said the use of fencing in newer prisons "is standard procedure." Between the double row of fencing, guard towers will stand.

Frady said the athletic field would be used on weekends for outside and intramural competitions.

Inmates being kept under the higher degrees of custody, Frady said, would not use the new facilities. Part of the present recreation area inside the prison will be kept for their use, he said.

BUDGET HIGHLIGHTS

SACRAMENTO (P)—State parks from Salton Sea to the south to Squaw Valley in the north would get 5.64 million dollars of the 9.28 million dollars Governor Brown asks to run the Parks and Recreation Department in 1963-64.

The request, 6.2 per cent above the 8.74 million dollars requested for this fiscal year, is necessary because "lands, facilities and service currently available are inadequate to meet present recreational needs," the governor said in today's budget message.

SACRAMENTO (P)—New programs to keep both oldsters and youngsters out of California's mental hospitals are proposed in Governor Brown's budget.

New Building For Vehicles Division

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

SACRAMENTO — A new quarter million dollar building in San Rafael for the State Division of Motor Vehicles is authorized in the new state budget presented the legislature today by the governor.

The $251,000 building, to replace the division's present quarters on the Miracle Mile, would be constructed in the 1963-64 fiscal year if it gets legislative approval.

There is $110,000 in the present budget for purchase of a site for the structure and $15,000 for working drawings of its construction. But to date the department has made no announcement of where it will purchase the land or what the structure will look like.

He asks $221,770 to hire new teams to screen out senile but sane oldsters, who could be better cared for in county hospitals or nursing homes.

Another $177,507 is asked to staff new wards at Camarillo and Napa State hospitals, for intensive treatment for "emotionally disturbed" children. At present all the state provides such patients is brief diagnosis and long-term custodial care.

Brown also asks 1.2 million dollars to staff new wards for mentally retarded patients at Porterville and Fairview State hospitals.

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown's 3.25-billion dollar budget includes $910,077 for operation of his office for the year, plus another $1,124,292 for functions which are directly under his office.

The document also includes $7,468,609 for the legislature. Brown's salary is budgeted at $40,000, the same as he has received since 1959. A $4,100 a year increase was included, to become effective this year, but Brown waived the increase.

The budget includes $19,845 for his executive secretary and $166,135 for 10 secretaries. The office has a total of 73.9 employees, including Brown and his personal staff. The annual budget is up $38,662.

SACRAMENTO (P)—A 109-million-dollar corrections budget putting new stress on rehabilitation and strengthening parole programs was recommended by Governor Brown today for 1963-64.

The Corrections Department, anticipating prison populations of 26,420 and parole caseloads of 14,439, asked an operating budget of $60,995,675 and $2, 970,621 for construction.

The Youth Authority, expecting 4,766 wards in institutions and 12,534 on parole, asked $25,544,275 for operations and $10,729,528 for capital outlay.

SACRAMENTO (P)—A federal tax cut this year is essential to revive a listless California economy, Governor Brown's budget-makers report.

They expect "near-stability" in total business during the first half of this year, with even less than that which characterized the closing half of 1962.

"It is believed that this unsatisfactory level of performance will add to the pressure for tax adjustments after mid-year, and that Congress will approve the president's recommended tax reduction in time to provide a strong thrust to activity late in the year," they said in the governor's budget message delivered today.

SACRAMENTO (P)—Governor Brown asked the legislature today to authorize 7,157 new state jobs and to provide 30.7 million dollars for pay raises for some present civil service workers.

Brown's 1963-64 state budget would give California a record 136,000 state workers and an annual payroll of 918 million dollars. This year's payroll totals about 886 million dollars.

The pay raise, separate from the payroll total, would go to civil service employees in "lagging" classes to bring their pay up to the level of similar positions in private employment. That would account for 20.4 million dollars. Some raises would be 10 per cent, some 5 per cent.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug centers.

RECORD OPERATIONAL BUDGET FOR QUENTIN

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO—San Quentin Prison would receive a record operational budget for more than 7.5 million dollars, but no funds for major improvements or staff changes, if the governor's budget, presented today, is approved.

The total prison budget of $7,548,091 is slightly more than $142,000 higher than a year ago, an increase of 1.9 per cent.

At the same time, it is expected that population of the prison itself will rise from an average 3,895 this year to 4,003 next year. In addition, average population of the road and conservation camps operated by San Quentin will increase from 644 this year to 734 next with the opening of two new camps, Konoti in Napa County and Black Mountain in Sonoma.

The new budget would make San Quentin the least expensive of the state institutions per inmate. San Quentin's cost will be $1,603 per man per year, $100 per man less than the Men's Colony, West Facility, and $112 less than Folsom Prison which had the lowest cost this year.

A total of $138,326 is earmarked for minor construction projects at San Quentin. One of these is equipping the Black Mountain conservation camp at a cost of $11,006.

Large job is renovation of the former Navy dry cleaning, washing and clothing repair plant on the prison grounds which the Navy operated during the war and until September last year. It will be remodeled at a cost of $47,320 into the clothing factory, which now is crowded onto the mezzanine of the furniture factory. It will be used as a dry cleaning and washing facility as well as a place to make denim jackets, jeans, prepare sheets, pillow cases, towels and other materials for state institutional use.

A $36,000 appropriation has been set aside for construction of a small maintenance building adjacent to the present maintenance facility so that major tools and equipment used in repair of large industrial machinery, electrical work and the like can be safely housed.

A $35,000 budget item is for replacing worn out washers and driers in the prison laundry.

The final $9,000 would be used for construction of bulk storage for chemicals used in

Art, Garden Fair Budget Due A Loss

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The Marin Art and Garden Fair at Ross, also known as the Marin County Fair, will operate at a $57,859 loss during the 1963-64 fiscal year, insofar as anticipated revenues compared to proposed expenditures are concerned, according to Gov. Edmund G. Brown's annual budget.

The fair expects $30,985 in revenues, and plans to spend $87,844 in operations. However, cash on hand and state subsidies bring the anticipated revenue column up to $124,757, with expenditures, including capital outlay, fixed at $94,129.

blending detergents for state use.

The budget calls for few changes in staff. A dentist, three professional and two clerical jobs would be added and one professional and two clerical in classification and parole, plus three custody positions will be abolished. A new staff of six will be needed for Black Mountain.

In addition, requested are an additional correctional lieutenant and correctional officer to be assigned to camp transportation and liaison; two correctional officers for wall posts overlooking the textile mill during the 4 p.m. to midnight shift the mill is now working; and two correctional officers for wall duty overlooking the new recreational area outside the walls which will be used for sports events on weekends and holidays. There also would be a correctional counselor and four casework trainees in a new recruiting and training program proposed for the institution.

Funds are also provided for continuation of the narcotics treatment control project and the handling of all parole violators returned to prison from anywhere in the state.

Thin Slice For Beaches, Parks

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Governor Edmund G. Brown's 1963-64 state budget provides $5,639,416 for construction in state beaches and parks, but less than $10,000 of it is earmarked for Marin County.

Of Marin's five state parks, only Angel Island is designated for either major or minor construction of any type. And major plans for development of that whole island, recently acquired by the state Division of Beaches and Parks, have not been included in the 1963-64 plans.

Angel Island's share of the construction budget will be $4,180 for replacement of some water lines and $4,800 for a survey of the park's electrical system.

No construction or repair of any kind is contemplated in Mount Tamalpais, Stinson Beach, Tomales Bay or Samuel P. Taylor state parks.

Only staffing change proposed at the five parks also is on Angel Island. Because of the acquisition of the rest of the island, an additional ranger is requested for service there.

Reflecting the defeat of Prop. 5 on the June ballot, the 150-million-dollar bond issue for acquisition of park lands, only $500,000 is set up in the budget this year for acquisition purposes. This is designated only for "opportunity buying" and would be used, for example, if portions of Forts Barry, Baker or Cronkhite in Southern Marin were abandoned by the armed services.

The construction budget calls for 733 new campsites and 175 new picnic units. These, plus those financed from prior budgets, will total 1,949 new campsites under construction in addition to the 5,129 now in the park system.

Largest projects in the new budget are a $749,512 water system for the Salton Sea State Park and $730,000 for development of 248 new campsites in La Costa Beach State Park.

In Northern California the largest project is $416,200 initial development of the new Del Norte Coast Redwoods State Park, which will include 146 new campsites and camp facilities to go with them. Second largest is a $345,900 project in Sonoma Coast State Park which will result in 100 new campsites.

Not A Drop Of Money

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Water money, water money everywhere, but not a drop for the North Bay.

With a $185,230,000 budget for state water projects in 1963-64, not a cent is earmarked for the North Bay area, a part of the state water plan.

It is the second year no appropriation has been made for the project designed to serve Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano Counties. In 1961-62, a total of $59 was spent of the aqueduct.

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

By JIM GILMARTIN

Louis, Moore, Giants, Dodgers And 49ers Highlight Sports Banquet

Joe Louis is still the champ wherever he goes. Youngsters, who weren't even born yet when the Brown Bomber ruled world boxing, stand with their fathers to cheer the big guy when he walks into a room.

Such was the case last night at Santa Rosa when Louis was the only one of some 30 sports celebrities to receive a standing ovation at the 10th annual March of Dimes banquet attended by some 550 fathers and sons.

And Louis delighted the crowd by saying Cassius Clay, the new heavyweight sensation who accurately predicts the rounds in which he'll kyo his opponent, "... isn't as good as he says he is." However, the Bomber admitted Cocky Cassius has helped the heavy-weight division. "He draws people to the fights hoping he'll get knocked out," he chuckled.

How would Clay fare against present champion Sonny Liston? "I think Liston would take out Clay faster than he beat Patterson," answered Louis to a roar of cheers.

Louis, now a fight promoter in Los Angeles and Puerto Rico, also offered that middle-weight champion Dick Tiger "pound for pound is probably the best fighter in the world today."

Shortly after the Bomber got in his dig at Clay, the ol' Mongoose, Archie Moore, had a few observations to make on Cassius. The articulate Moore, a recent kayo victim of Clay, quipped, "I think he could be called the young Clarence Darrow of the heavyweights, but he'll need a new set of tonsils when Liston gets through with him. He won't last a round against Sonny."

Moore then turned to the subject of baseball and Maury Wills of the Dodgers, the greatest base stealer in history. "I met Maury not long ago and he impressed me as a very pious, religious young man. But then I thought about the Commandments and 'Thou Shalt Not Steal' and, well, ..." he shrugged with a big smile.

BASEBALL WAS well-represented at the Sports Celebrities banquet and the Dodgers (Ron Fairly and Doug Camilli) had some fun with the Giants and their swampy first base area designed to neutralize the Dodger speed.

"Ya' gonna close the dikes this year?" asked Fairly of Alvin Dark. "Hang tough, Fairly," interrupted sportscaster Lon Simmons, "next season it's going to be quick sand."

Dark admitted he and the defending champion Giants are on the spot this year and added, "Ah just hope ah'm on the same spot next year as ah am now."

Alvin also had a gift, a new bat, to present to the Cardinals' Gene Oliver whose home run on the last day of the season knocked the Dodgers out of and the Giants into the pennant. "I've adopted Oliver as my son," said Dark, fondly.

Oliver, an honored guest, then asked the audience to stand for five seconds of silence. "That," he said, "is in loving memory of the Los Angeles Dodgers."

SOME OTHER "Napkin Notes" from the banquet:

Fullback Jimmy Brown, on the firing of Paul Brown as coach of the Cleveland Browns: "I'm very sorry Paul isn't around any more, but I think he lost the ability to instill spirit in the players during the past few years."

BOB ST. CLAIR on the pro-football point-shaving investigation: "It's almost too ridiculous to answer. The smears haven't affected me as much as they have the sport I represent. This is unfair; the boys are clean and the game is clean. Pro football will never be tainted and the games will never be fixed."

MATT HAZELTINE, on 49er Coach Red Hickey's "my greatest team" statement early in the 1962 season: "Red said we had a lot of horses but I've always thought we'd do better with men."

DAN COLCHICO, "most inspirational 49er: (Red Hickey) said we have one of the finest lines in football—even our own backfield couldn't get through it.

"When I first came to the 49ers Abe Woodson told me about salary talks with Vic Morabito. 'Don't discuss your salary with anyone,' Vic told Abe, and Abe replied, 'Don't worry, Vic, I'm just as ashamed of it as you are.'"

JIMMY DAVENPORT on the new, higher strike zone: "I like high balls. Heck, I swing over my head a lot of times, anyhow."

RON FAIRLY on big teammate Frank Howard: "He's really a gentle guy; he wouldn't hurt a fly." Simmons: "What do you mean? I saw him butcher three of them in one game."

WILLIE MCCOVEY, on being presented an autographed picture of the Yankees' Bobby Richardson: "I wish he was here in person so I could cut him down to size." On playing outfield beside Willie Mays: "He gives me confidence 'cause on some flies I know I can call to him for help."

KERMIT ALEXANDER, 49ers' No. 1 draft choice: "I get kidded about that a lot. They call me Hickey's Baby. But then I found out they draft alphabetically."

ABE WOODSON: "Alphabetically? Now I know why they have me on defense, the kick-off and punt return teams."

ALEXANDER again: "I prefer to play defense because I get a great deal of enjoyment out of hitting people. Guess I have more guts than sense."

JOHN BRODIE, Kermit, I hope you have more sense than guts or you'll lose both."

LOE SIMMONS on Russ Hodges: "We're the same size if he's lying down and I'm standing up." Simmons to heavily-bearded sportscaster Bill King: "How are the cough drops going, Bill?"

R. C. OWENS on his Baltimore Colts' poor showing last season: "We got a bonus, though; a ham and a nice letter."

ST. CLAIR: "Yeh, we got a letter, too."

ST. CLAIR (again) describing the 49ers' famous "Look Out" block: "Well, if the line charges hard and we miss our block, we turn around and holler to Brodie, 'Look Out!'"

DOUG CAMILLI of the Dodgers on the 1962 schedule: "A hundred and sixty-two games is just too long a season: One hundred and sixty-one games would have been just right."

BOB GARIBALDI, the Giants' $150,000 bonus ace whose marriage just before the end of the year reportedly saved him $9,000 in income tax: "Believe me, I didn't get married just to save that money. And besides, I see my wife standing out there in the lobby."

And so it went into the night, a parade of champions having a ball along with the 550 dads and lads—all for the March of Dimes.

Only four celebs failed to appear: Don Drysdale (illness), Maury Wills and Hugh Campbell (snowbound in the north) and Bart Starr, no reason given.

Other celebs to speak were Joe Amalfitano, Eddie Bresnoud, Charlie Krueger, Marv Lavy, Tom Meschery, Ernie Nebers and Leo Nomellini.

Fantastic 17-Foot Vault Coming Soon?

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A fantastic 17-foot pole vault suddenly has become a possibility and may be achieved in the near future, perhaps this month.

Pentti Nikula, a wiry Finn who soared a startling 16 feet 8 3/4 inches over the weekend, hopes to make the 17-foot flight in the U.S. National AAU championships in New York's Madison Square Garden Feb. 23.

There he will compete against about a half dozen other athletes who have bettered the once seemingly unconquerable 16-foot barrier.

Among them is Dave Tork, Charleston, W.Va., who cleared 16-2 1/4 in Toronto less than two weeks ago, vowed that 17 feet could be done and said he thought he was the man to do it.

Nikula, who holds the listed world record at 16-2 1/2 is gunning for 17 feet.

"It came as no surprise to me," the vaulting wizard said after his 16-8 3/4 leap Saturday in an indoor meet at Pajulahti, Finland, an obscure resort village. "I am in top shape and will shoot for 17 feet next time."

The performance came as a warm-up for Pentti who plans to leave Feb. 20 for several U.S. meets, with the AAU championship No. 1.

His vault was 5 1/2 inches higher than any other man has ever vaulted, but will not be submitted for a world record since it was accomplished indoors. Indoor performances are not recognized as official records by the International Track and Field Federation.

On the same night, Rolando Cruz, a Puerto Rican-born vaulter competing for Villanova, became the eighth man to go over 16 feet when he cleared 16 feet 1/4 inch in the Philadelphia Inquirer Games.

Like Nikula, Tork and the other 16-foot vaulters, he used a fiber glass pole to flip over the once unheard of height. The 16-foot vault—first accomplished by German-born U.S. Marine John Uelses a year ago—now is becoming almost commonplace.

Don Bragg, world champion before the introduction of the fiber glass pole, has long decried its use.

"I love to watch these guys vault with this new pole," he wryly commented Saturday in Philadelphia. "I also love to see people shot out of cannons at the circus. These guys aren't vaulters, they are catapultists."

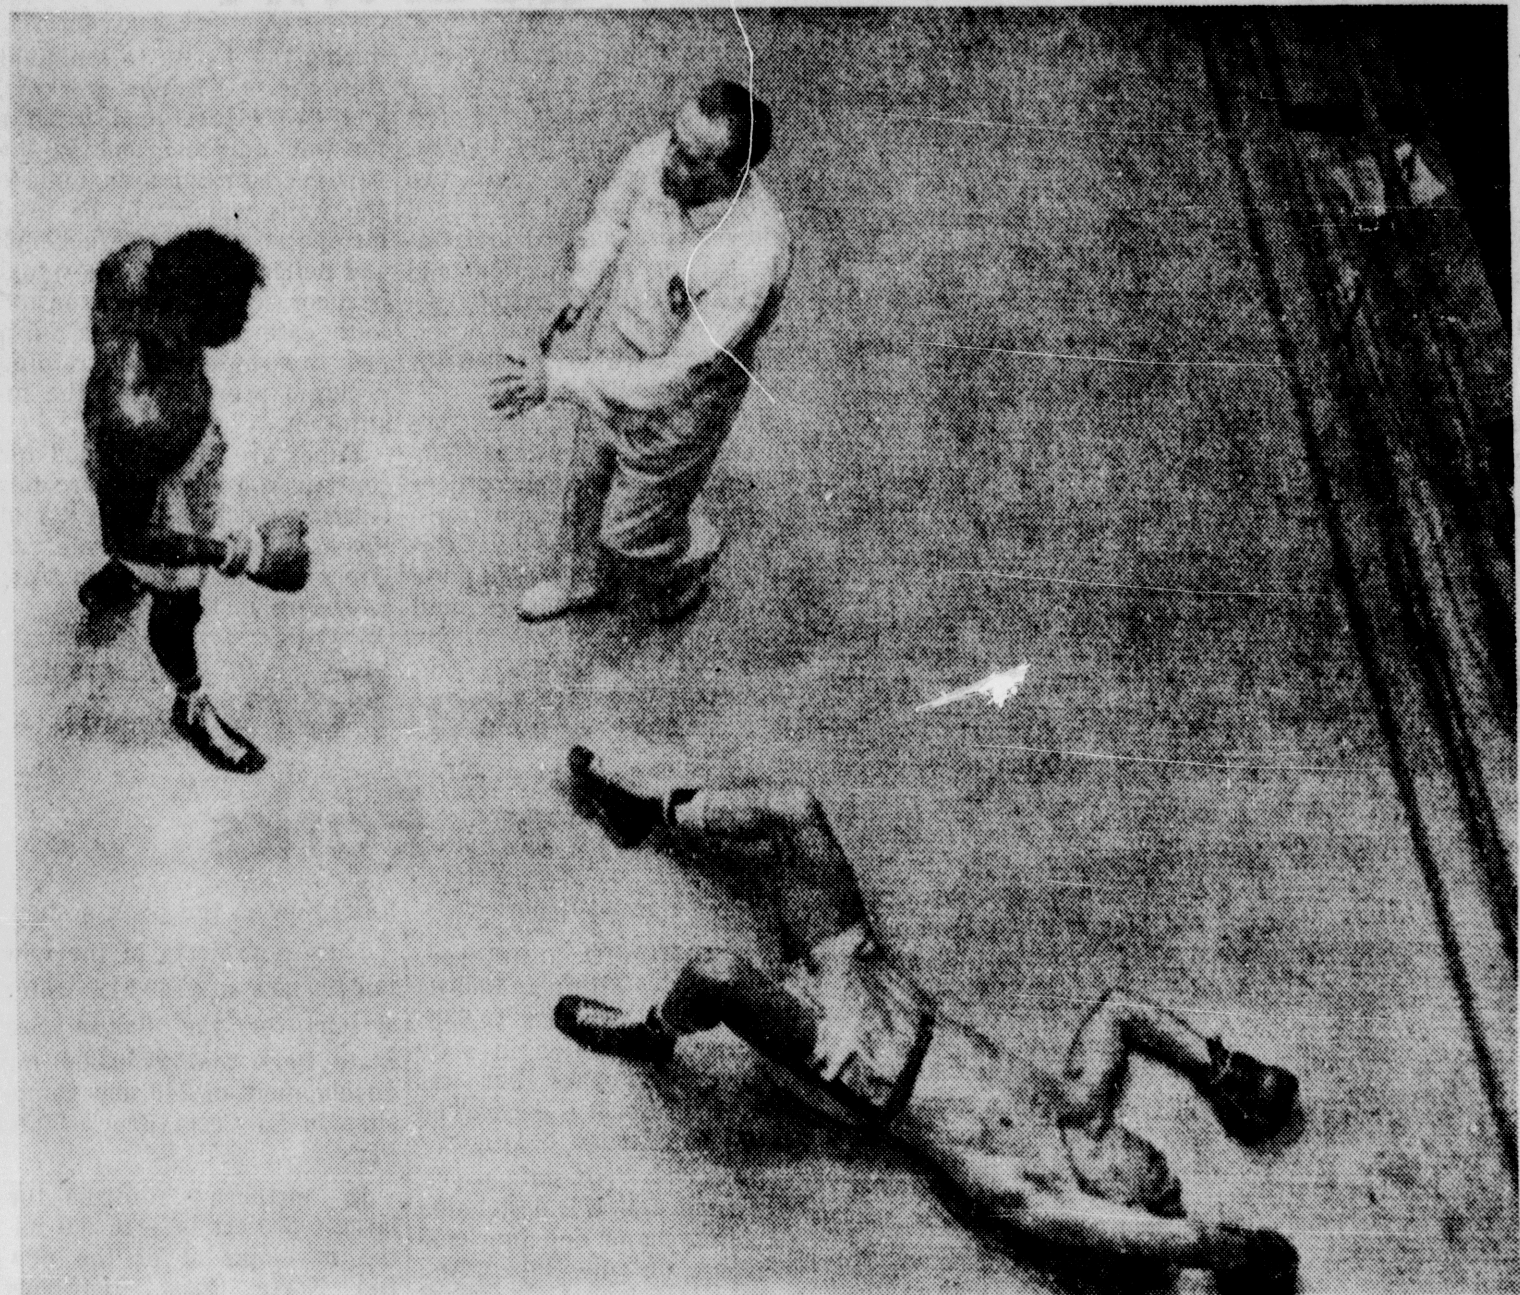

The pole, however, is now in general use. Others who have made the 16-foot height include C. K. Yang, a Nationalist Chinese who attends UCLA;

Don Myers of Colorado University; John Belitz of the University of Maryland and Ron Morris of the University of Southern California.

The feat has now been accomplished on each of the last three weekends. None of them created the sensation of Nikula's flight in Pajulahti.

"You're kidding," Uelses said in Philadelphia when informed of the 16-8 3/4 vault. "That's a pretty good jump."

The best previous mark was 16-3 1/4 by Yang, in an indoor meet the week before.

ON HIS BACK—Chris Christensen, Danish middleweight, is sprawled on his back after a right and a left to the head by Emille Griffith in the third round of their scheduled 15-round fight in Copenhagen yesterday. Christensen took a count of eight and got to his feet, but was beaten by a TKO in the ninth round. (AP Wirephoto)

Griffith Stops Dane In Ninth

COPENHAGEN (P)—Powerful Emille Griffith, fresh from his technical knockout victory over Denmark's Chris Christensen, pointed today toward two defenses of his world championship in the next four months.

The hard-hitting Virgin Islander signed to meet Brian Curvis of Wales on the Welshman's home grounds early in June. He came to terms with Jack Solomon, the British promoter, shortly after smashing Christensen with pile driving lefts and rights to end their bout in the ninth round.

Referee Robert Seidel of Switzerland stopped the bout as Christensen slumped helplessly against the ropes in a fight that was billed for the junior middleweight title although Griffith is the recognized champion in this division only in Austria. The World Boxing Assn. recognizes Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore. as the titleholder.

Griffith, who now lives in New York, was very tough on Christensen. He sent the Dane to the canvas in the third round with a jarring left and right to the head. He had Christensen groggy again in the fifth round with a swinging right to the jaw. At the end of the seventh, the challenger's face was bloated red.

In the decisive ninth round, Griffith rocked Chris with a left and then a right. The Dane crashed on his back. When he got up at the count of nine, he walked into another series of shattering punches. He took a compulsory eight count, standing groggily.

Once again, the champion stormed in and Christensen's corner tossed in the towel.

'Jack May Lead Pack But Watch Out For Man In Black'

PALM SPRINGS (P)—Gary Player, the little man in black, came from five strokes behind in the final round of the $50,000 Palm Springs golf classic for a tie—and so today met Jack Nicklaus in an 18-hole playoff. The money difference is $9,000 to $4,000.

Nicklaus went into a one-stroke lead in the second round, then maintained a five-stroke lead on the third and fourth rounds of the marathon 90-hole tournament.

But he said someone, like the witches in Macbeth, warned him: "Jack may lead the pack but watch out for the man in black."

Player, of South Africa, usually wears black from head to toe. The two have met head-on only once before—late last summer in the "world series of golf." Nicklaus won by five strokes.

345 TOTAL

Both finished the tournament here with 345 totals. Nicklaus, last to finish, needed an eagle to win on the 482-yard, par-5 18th. His 30-foot putt missed the cup by inches. He settled for a birdie four, same as Player.

Nicklaus, 23, took his final-round blowup good-naturedly. "I guess I didn't know how to act with a five-stroke lead," he smiled. "I have never had a five-stroke lead before. I know I played too conservatively."

Arnold Palmer, the other member of golfing's Big Three, made one of his famous finishes with a final 67 for 349 to get himself $2,000 and a tie for fifth place.

Ahead of him at 346 was Tommy Bolt, whose iron play was as deadly as most pro putting. Bolt's final-round 66 won him third-place money of $3,000.

In fourth place, tied at 347, Gene Littler, who shot a last-day round of 64, and Gardner Dickinson, who had a final 68.

Littler's 64 was the best individual round of the tournament. The fourth-place money was worth $2,450.

Tar Cagers Whip Sierra

Getting off to an early 10 point lead, the College of Marin Tar basketballers found Sierra College an easy prey and romped to a 77-63 victory Saturday in Sierra.

The victory was the third league win for the Mariners who head the Golden Valley Conference with a 3-0 record.

Marin found a weak defense in Sierra and scored most of its points on driving plays off the Tar fast break. Marin led by at least seven points throughout the game and spurted out in the closing minutes to get its 14-point margin.

Marin displayed a balanced scoring attack with five cagers hitting in the double figures. Dave Neumann was high with 17 points, followed by Steve Bryant with 15 and Randy Petrini, Jim Wylie and Charlie Bullock, each with 12 points.

The Tars hit for 47 per cent, compared to only 37 per cent for Sierra. Halftime score was 41-31. Marin out in front.

Neumann led the Tars in rebounding with 12, at Petrini contributed 10 and Bryant pulled down nine from the boards. Neumann got most of his 17 points in the second half as he meshed 13 points in the final stanza before fouling out with only seconds to go. Bullock fouled out early in the second half.

The Tars will take on Napa College tomorrow night at 8 c'clock in the Redwood High School gymnasium.

Marin Scorers: Dave Neumann, 5-7-17; Steve Bryant, 6-3-15; Randy Petrini, 6-0-12; Jim Wylie, 6-0-12; Charlie Bullock, 5-2-12; Mike Kavanagh, 3-0-6; Bill Hodgson, 0-3-3. Totals 31-15-77.

Nick Willard Of Novato Is Prep Of Week

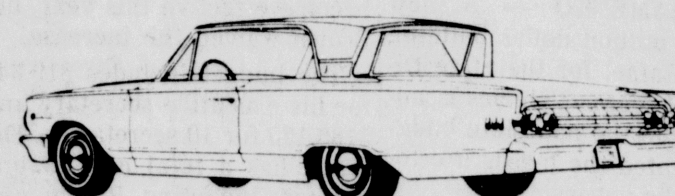

Nick Willard, high-scoring center-forward on the Novato Hornet basketball team, has been selected as Prep of the Week by the Independent-Journal for his play last week.

Willard is the Marin Athletic League's leading scorer with 117 points in six games for an outstanding average of 19.5 per game.

Novato, with a 1-5 league record, lost both its games last week, but Willard still scored more than 20 points in each game. Against Redwood, the 6-1 junior scored 25 points as his Hornet team lost, 62-49, on Tuesday.

Last Friday the Hornets were soundly thumped by Drake 58-48, but Willard did his best for the Hornets, scoring 21 points. For the season, Willard has amassed his 117 points on 47 field goals and 23 free throws.

SAN JOSE (P)—San Francisco's Warriors take a home game on the road again tonight hoping the experiment will be as successful on the court as it was last time.

The Warriors and Chicago Zephyrs will meet here after the Zephyrs won the opener of a two-game National Basketball Assn. series 110-108 yesterday in San Francisco.

Last month the Warriors lost a series opener to Detroit in San Francisco, but went to Bakersfield two nights later and walloped the Pistons.

Sunday's loss kept the Warriors from deadlocking Detroit for third place in the NBA's western division and instead let Chicago creep within 2 games of fourth as the three clubs battle for a sole playoff spot.

The Zephyrs pulled ahead to stay midway through the final period though Wilt Chamberlain pumped in five points in

STANFORD, UCLA IN SHOWDOWN

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stanford and UCLA tangle in the first major showdown game of the Big Six basketball season Saturday in Stanford Pavilion—an antiquated bandbox where the Indians have lost only one game in two seasons. Washington, which dealt UCLA two losses at Seattle in January, helped the Bruins Friday by upsetting Stanford 49-48, leaving the Indians top the Big Six with a 3-1 record.

UCLA, with its backcourt star Walt Hazzard, picked on fast-folding Southern California for 77-65 and 86-72 victories to bolster its league mark to 3-2.

Elsewhere Saturday Santa Clara stayed unbeaten in the West Coast Athletic Conference by trimming San Jose 67-55. California ran away from Oregon 79-58. San Diego State upset Pepperdine 55-51 and Pacific nipped San Francisco State 68-63. Icy roads forced cancellation of Stanford's game at Washington State.

STANFORD-USC
Stanford will entertain Southern Cal Friday while UCLA rests for Saturday. The Indians, to hold their lead, will need more consistent shooting than they had at Washington, where several long scoring droughts lost the game. Center Tom Dose couldn't hit a single field goal in the first half.

Hazzard was the weekend's standout player with 27 points each night and a dazzling array of passes that propelled UCLA's fast break. When Southern Cal threatened mildly in the second half Saturday he romped through Trojan defenders for three baskets that iced the game.

California, which split a week-end series with Oregon, takes its 2-2 conference record to Washington for two games against the Huskies, 4-3.

WCAC standings aren't expected to change materially unless disappointing defending champion Pepperdine does an about-face. The Waves, 0-2, face St. Mary's, 2-0, Wednesday, San Jose 2-2, Friday and San Francisco, 3-0 Saturday.

USF, ST. MARY'S
San Francisco and St. Mary's each have a weekend engagement with cellar-dwelling Loyola while Santa Clara steps outside the WCAC to host Southern California Saturday.

Santa Clara posted its fourth conference game Saturday with a virtual wire-to-wire win over San Jose. Joe Weiss topped the surging Broncos with 19 points.

California had an 8-0 lead Saturday before Oregon even got off a shot. Cal lead by 31 points midway through the second half.

San Francisco won its 10th game of the year against six losses Sunday, outlasting Gonzaga 62-54 at Spokane, Wash. Jim Brovelli drove in three times for baskets in the closing two minutes to pull the Dons ahead.

Sports Car Driver Killed
RIVERSIDE (P)—An air-craft engineer, driving in sports car races for six years as a hobby, was killed at Riverside Raceway when his car crashed into a guard rail at 120 miles per hour.

Stephen Dane, 34, Inglewood, father of two young girls, was pinned in the wreckage of his tiny Formula Three auto for 15 minutes Saturday after the pile up. It was during a preliminary race at the Pacific Coast divisional sports car championships.

Herman Barron Wins Seniors Golf Tourney
PORT ST. LUCIE, Fla. (P)—Fifty-three-year-old Herman Barron, who methodically ground out four rounds of record-breaking golf and outlasted big John Barnum in a personal duel, is the new PGA seniors champion.

Barron, who turned professional at the age of 15, turned in a 3-under-par 72 yesterday for a 72-hole total of 272, six strokes under the old tournament record. That gave him $2,500 first place money and a two-stroke victory over the 6-foot-3, 225-pound Barnum, who had dogged Barron for three rounds.

1. Stanford (12-4) lost to Washington 49-47, game with Washington State canceled.
2. Colorado (12-3) beat Oklahoma 77-68.
3. Mississippi State (14-4) beat Southern Mississippi 62-52, beat LSU 73-66.
4. Wichita (14-5) beat Tulsa 66-38.

MCAL GAMES TOMORROW

Tam, Redwood In Feature

The second round of basketball games in the Marin Athletic League will start tomorrow as the loop reached the halfway mark in the 1962-63 season.

In the feature attraction, the first place Tamalpais Indians will host the Redwood Giants who are tied for fourth place in the league standings. Other games will find San Rafael at Drake and Novato at Terra Linda.

All games start at 4 p.m., followed by B team contests. Tam will find Redwood a different team than the squad which the Indians clobbered 51-36 in the league opener on Jan. 11. After dropping its first three games, the Giants of Redwood fired back to win the next trio of tilts to give them an even 3-3 record in league competition.

Tam (6-0) will be trying to keep its undefeated league record intact when the cagers take on the Giants. Tam has averaged 54.3 points per game in its first six games, while Redwood has averaged 45 points.

But the Tam Indians have appeared stronger each game as their basic five men—Art Foster, Warren Domino, Art Ford, Jim Durbin and Ellis Williams—have been great both in scoring and rebounding.

"MUST" GAME

The San Rafael-Drake contest is a "must" game for both clubs if they are to say in the race for the championship flag. Drake (4-2) is tied for second place and San Rafael (3-3) is tied for the fourth spot.

In the two team's first meeting, Drake edged San Rafael in overtime 45-44 and the Bulldogs will be out for revenge. While Drake has shown a balanced scoring attack led by Larry Gaddy with 73 points, San Rafael's prime point-maker is Rod Monti who has pushed through 97 points.

Terra Linda will be going after its first league win tomorrow when it tackles the Hornets of Novato. The Hornets' (1-5) lone win in league competition was over these same Trojans (0-6), in the league opener in which Novato came out on top, 60-59.

117 POINTS

Novato has shown a one-man scoring show each week with Nick Willard, combination forward and center. Willard has racked up a total of 117 points at the league's halfway mark for a game average of 19.5.

The Trojans are led in the scoring column by Jim Dalton and Bob King with 60 and 54 points respectively.

Boy Comes Down Off Mt. Tamalpais

By PHIL FRADKIN

"Big Red" and Charles Wayne Peters, 14, came down off Mount Tamalpais Saturday afternoon, and it was a sad parting.

Charles, who lives in Vallejo, went to the Marin County Juvenile Hall to face burglary investigation.

"Big Red," a Chesapeake retriever that was the constant companion of the Life Scout during his 25 days on the mountain during freezing weather and last week's storm, went home to his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Harlo L. Robinson of 280 Panoramic Highway.

The boy, who was trying to establish the longest camping record on the mountain, was aided by the five-month old dog. It kept him company and snuggled close to him during the freezing nights.

In turn, the boy gave the dog the best part of the food he bought.

"I couldn't have stayed up there without him," Charles told Deputy Sheriff John Goff. The boy nicknamed the dog "Big Red." His real name is Rusty.

Charles, who had eluded all efforts at capture and kept one step ahead of sheriff's deputies, was caught at last by Goff, who posed as a Marin Municipal Water District employee checking pipes at Rifle Camp, just below the Mountain Theater.

Goff was tipped off where Charles was camping by water district employee Joseph Zappella, who had been checking pipes in the campground. Zappella had seen the youth a number of times on the mountain and had gained his confidence.

The boy told Goff, "I could have stayed up there indefinitely."

Charles said he spent much of his time fishing but caught no fish. He bought food in Fairfax or at the Mountain Home Inn. Sometimes campers at Rifle Camp would feed him and the dog.

The boy spent his first night on the mountain, Jan. 8, in Boot Jack Camp. He moved around, never staying long at one campground. He hid himself and the dog in bushes when he heard a car or truck approaching.

He left the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Peters of Vallejo, on his sister's bicycle with a full load of food and camping equipment and about $14. He slept under a tent in a sleeping bag covered by an extra blanket.

Charles told Goff, "I kept warm at night by snuggling up with the dog."

Goff observed, "The dog really liked the kid. He followed him around everywhere. He cried when we took the dog away from him."

When the storm broke last Tuesday, Charles stuck it out until his tent blew away early Wednesday, then sought aid from Frank M. Markt, caretaker at Lagunitas Lake. During the storm, he spent two nights in the basement of the Sara Trube home at 1820 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax. Friday he took off for the mountain when publicity of an Independent-Journal story scared him.

Friday afternoon, Fairfax police said, a window was broken in the home of Robert Noble at 600 Bolinas Road, and a pistol, a transistor radio and three butcher knives were stolen.

They were recovered a short time later from a bucket Charles dropped when Sheriff's Deputy E. A. Koehn surprised him. Charles left the bucket by Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. He and "Big Red" ran away.

The boy was facing a Vallejo burglary charge when he disappeared. Charles' father, a retired Air Force sergeant, said he runs away about once a year, "but usually only for a couple of days."

Charles had gone camping in England, Europe and Africa while his father was stationed in those places with the Air Force. "He loves to camp," Peters said.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Vincent, owners of the Mountain Home Inn, and Robinson have offered to buy Charles a Chesapeake retriever if his parents grant permission.

Mrs. Vincent said, "He was such a sweet boy and so polite. He loved the dog so well and took good care of it, feeding the dog bacon and some bones we had given him."

"I think he needs something like that. A dog would probably be the best thing the boy could have."

She said the dog, which had disappeared from the Robinson home on Jan. 8, had gained weight. "I am sure he would have given most of the food he stole to the dog."

Quentin Camp Runaway Taken

Siskiyou County sheriff's deputies captured a 24-year-old San Quentin Prison inmate Saturday about four hours after he slipped away from a highway work crew at Camp 41 near the Oregon border.

A forestry truck in which Frank C. Massetti fled was found abandoned seven miles from Happy Camp. Massetti was found at the junction of the Salmon and Klamath rivers.

Massetti, who is serving a one to 20 year sentence for a robbery attempt in Los Angeles County, was held in the Siskiyou County jail.

Four Die In Airport Crash

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A Slick Airways Constellation carrying classified Navy cargo crashed yesterday in an instrument landing at fog-shrouded San Francisco International Airport and exploded in flames, killing four of the eight men aboard.

The huge, four-engine ship made a normal instrument approach and then dug its left wing into the ground at the edge of the runway, skidding into a half-moon arc that ended 300 yards away. The plane burst into flame.

A spokesman for Slick Airways said the craft was carrying classified cargo bound for Alameda Naval Air Station across San Francisco Bay. The cargo was presumed destroyed.

The four who perished in the craft, all Californians, were: pilot Richard MacCallum, 42, Walnut Creek; copilot William Coryell, 48, Burbank; Albert V. Aaron, 40, and Lloyd Mulligan, 40, both of San Mateo. All were Slick Airways employees.

Aaron, an off-duty pilot, was dead-heading home from Dallas, Tex., as was Mulligan, the maintenance foreman at Slick's San Francisco shop.

The flight had originated in Washington, D.C., and made stops in Norfolk, Va.; Dallas, Tex., and Albuquerque, N.M. The big ship had been held over

San Jose for 45 minutes while visibility cleared to three-quarters of a mile at the airport.

The four injured were: John O'Neal, 46, Pittsfield, Mass., a General Electric Corp. representative who accompanied the special Navy equipment; Slick flight engineers John Walik, 41, Los Alamitos; Clarence Field, 43, Millbrae, and Kenneth Hale, 42, San Mateo, engineer for another air cargo line.

All were taken to the Peninsula Hospital at Burlingame.

Walik battled through smoke and flame to hold open an emergency door for two of the injured passengers and help them out of the burning ship.

Almost overcome in the blazing wreck, Walik jumped clear himself while a third man crawled toward him. He was one of the four who never got out alive.

Seventy firemen battled for two hours against the flames before the bodies could be recovered.

Drowning Youth's Last Words: You Gotta Help Me, I Can't Swim

BROWNS VALLEY, Minn. (AP)—Their car plunged through the ice and 12 feet of frigid water, settling on the bottom of Lake Traverse.

The three college men climbed into the back seat and pressed their noses to the roof where there was a pocket of air. They pulled off their coats and Jerry Hahn said, "Well, we all have to go for it."

Hahn, 21, was the only survivor of the ordeal yesterday. He swam 75 feet, pulled himself onto the ice, then ran and crawled a half mile to a lake-shore shack.

Philip Anderson 19, an excellent swimmer, drowned. So did Paul Vergeldt, 21, whose last words were, "You gotta help me, I can't swim!"

A skindiver found the bodies of Anderson and Vergeldt, in the back seat of the car.

From a bed in a Wheaton, Minn., hospital, Hahn told about the tragedy:

The Rosholt, S. D., youths, honor students at South Dakota State College in Brookings, took a short cut across the lake, on the Minnesota-South Dakota border, about 2 a.m. The ice is nearly 30 inches thick in most places.

At a place where ice had buckled and broken, the auto crashed through. The windows, operated electrically, wouldn't open. When the car was almost full of water, the young men got a back door open.

Hahn swam to a hole in the ice. His father said the youth apparently pulled himself up by letting his sweater sleeves freeze to the ice. He began following the shoreline. He stumbled, and his sweater froze to the ice. The only way he could free himself was to crawl out of the sweater.

Following the shore, he came to the small home of Pete Jensen.

Jensen gave the youth dry clothing, then drove him to a resort where the proprietor telephoned authorities. Hahn was suffering from shock and exposure. Attendants said his condition was fair.

'FLOWER CART,' a decorative mural for both the contemporary and traditional home, will be shown on Feb. 20 when Designer's Showcase presents "A Spring Parade of Paints and Papers" as a benefit for the Grape Booth Guild of Sunny Hills.

Spring Parade Of Paints, Papers

Nothing can freshen up a house, change its mood and style as quickly or as easily as a new paint color properly combined with a wallpaper pattern. Today's homemaker, intrigued by the decorative effects possible with these design tools, is turning to them more and more, however frustration and disappointment can result unless she is aware of and guided by basic rules.

Designer's Showcase, the Marin Series of Interior Decorating Programs has taken up this problem as the theme for the opening 1963 show for Feb. 20 at Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael. Sponsored as a benefit, proceeds from the program will aid the Grape Booth Guild of Sunny Hills.

"A SPRING Parade of Paints and Papers" will show that the proper combination of paint and pattern can solve many interior decorating dilemmas. With a little know-how, the homemaker will learn that the astute combination of paint and paper can cover up protruding beams, make a room seem larger and even push out the walls.

The vignettes, created for the program by Lorette Larson, interior designer and color consultant from Marin, will feature what's new in paint colors and ways to use the wide variety of designs and fabrics now available in wall coverings.

POINTERS ON the power of paint to correlate, complement or accent favorite schemes as well as invaluable how-to techniques on preparation, finishes and ways to use the new non-drip, quick drying paint will be discussed by Les Ayers, paint specialist from San Rafael; Fred Fowler, wallpaper stylist from Jackson Square, will also participate on the panel.

Very probably most women thumbing through wallpaper books are not aware that there are nine basic types of wallpaper patterns that are designed to solved and enhance many areas in the home. An all-over pattern can unify a room, camouflage the sloping line of a ceiling, or make a jog in the wall look straight. These patterns are nondirectional, that is, they have the same look from any angle or view.

A "small pattern," on the other hand, can give height to a room, add color or symmetry. These call for patterns that have a definite up or down or across direction. A pattern that has been very much in demand these days is the one classified as the French say, "trompe l'oeil"—we say fool-the-eye. The designs here are conceived to carry the eye away from the enclosing walls and are used successfully in dining or living rooms. Another use for them and so often this field is neglected by the homeowner, is to take them out of rooms and put them to decorative use in stairways. A good example of this is the Hasu design created by Albert Van Luit. Here is a multi-colored mural very much at home on

Interfacing Used To Stiffen A Stand-Away Style Capelet

By EUNICE FARMER

"What type of stiffening should I use in an elbow length capelet so it will stand away from the body? Also, please tell me how to apply it?"—Mrs. E.M.C.

Dear Mrs. E.M.C.: For this type of stiffening, you could use a heavy woven or non-woven type of interfacing. I would suggest cutting the interfacing the same as your garment and basting the two layers of fabric together. Now proceed as if you are working with one single thickness of fabric.

along without your column. You have given me the sewing confidence I've never had. When a buttonhole appears in a seam, how is it made?"—Mrs. J.E.A.

Dear Mrs. J.E.A.: As you are stitching the seamline, you must back stitch or double-stitch each end of the space on the seamline for the buttonhole. The space for the buttonhole is not stitched. If the entire seam is not pressed open, you must clip to the seamline at each end of the buttonhole and press this part of the seam open.

If desired, you may machine stitch 1/8 inch on each side of the fold to make it correspond in appearance to the rest of your buttonholes.

Mrs. V.R. says: "To prevent angora sweaters from shedding so badly, place them in a plastic bag and keep in the refrigerator before wearing."

Sounds silly doesn't it, but according to several readers, it really works. I wish I had known this when I was young enough to wear angora sweaters.

"Maybe you can tell me how to transform a full-pleated skirt into a plain one?"—Mrs. A.F.S.

Dear Mrs. A.F.S.: Rip the seams of your pleated skirt and carefully press flat so the grain-line will not be disturbed. Examine the threads of the fabric to determine the lengthwise grain and mark this with a long arrow using white chalk.

Lay your new skirt pattern on your fabric, matching the grain-line so it will hang correctly. After it has been cut, proceed with the usual construction.

This week's tailor trix winner is Mrs. W. N. Clinton, 727 Ragin Lane, Rock Hill, S.C. She wins a tailor trix pressing board for the following suggestion:

"My biggest problem seems to be the points on collars. I discovered that if I trim the interfacing diagonally behind the seam line at the point, the bulk is eliminated. The collars look more tailored and are much easier to turn."

"I have a light weight, pure silk shirt waist dress. I don't enjoy wearing it because it blows up in the air with the slightest breeze. Is there anything I can put inside the hem to keep the skirt hanging in place?"—Mrs. A.K.A.

Dear Mrs. A.K.A.: The only suggestion I can give you is one that is often used in the hems of jackets and over-blouses. This is a very fine metal chain that is placed in the hem for added weight.

You would probably have to loosely catch it by hand at the fold line for the hem and possibly it wouldn't be necessary to use it in the entire hem.

If any of you readers have found other satisfactory ways of solving this problem, please let us know.

Please send your questions and sewing tips to Sew Simple, in care of the Independent-Journal. If you would like my booklet "All About Sleeves," send 10¢ and a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for it to Eunice Farmer, in care of the Independent-Journal.

Small Rooms Cause Problem

NEW YORK (UPI)—Smaller room sizes are making it increasingly difficult to get proper proportion in interior decorating schemes, according to a New York interior designer.

Designer Jay Dorf makes these suggestions to cope with decreased space:

Bring the eye down and keep it there. This means low scale—low-backed chairs, low tables, low everything.

Create an illusion of height by using vertical lines, placing pictures lower on the wall and hanging light fixtures low.

Use diminutive accessories: low and petite flower arrangements, short candelabra and candles and small-scaled lamps.

Sculptured works and other art objects should be delicate and unobtrusive.

Use area rugs to focus the eye on a small area, while still leaving a good deal of floor space showing.

Keep walls and ceilings light, and alternate light and dark shades throughout the room. Use the darker shades on larger units.

Research Helps Cut Food Bill

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—The housewife today pays a smaller percentage of the family income for food than she did 15 years ago because of agricultural research, according to Henry R. Fortmann of Pennsylvania State University.

Fortmann, assistant director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Penn State, said food costs now claim only 20 percent of the family income compared to 26 percent in 1947.

Fortmann made the statement during a recent meeting of the International Crop Improvement Association.

Designer's Showcase Planned As Grape Booth Presentation

a long stairway. It creates a unity and softness and since it is available in several color combinations it could easily be adapted for use in Marin homes, says Lorette Larson.

If a room lacks natural sunlight, a mural can be a saving decorative feature. "Kensington" is an example of a charming English mural, it picks up the warm wood tones of the furniture, and the foil paper in deep bronze shades moves up to tints of orange and red and brings in a feeling of light. The fruit design done in blue greens and yellow is a dramatic contrast against the shimmering green background. The antique Chippendale console in mellow fruitwood and cane chair cushion unholstered in a blue green silk striped fabric accents the bronze toned area rug.

FOR MARINITES justly proud of their old homes with high ceilings, wainscoting and invaluable antiques the "Verdi Damask" could be a splendid choice. It is an elegant reproduction of an old Italian fabric adopted to wallpaper. An eloquent statement for a traditional theme, it is shown here in red on white background and is a sculptured design to emphasize the architectural features that include tall ceilings and wainscoting.

A VERY decorative background good for either the contemporary or traditional home is the "Flower Cart" pattern. Available in custom colors perfect for any color scheme it has the happy facility of being washable with cool water.

For the hobbyist, the part time sailor, the sport devotee or the collector there is a pattern to fit and satisfy, and it can set the mood for bedroom, den or office. An original design, "Picture Collection" creates the illusion, depth and contrast that one's own picture collection would achieve if hung on a flat wall surface. Color tones can be picked out from the pattern, and accents colors added.

The versatility of washable surfaces, textured grass cloths and even flocked papers will also be shown and discussed in "A Spring Parade of Paints and Papers." This unique, informative presentation will be shown to Marin women only on February 20th. Reservations for the luncheon preceding the program may be made with Mrs. Donald Smiley of Kentfield. Mrs. Irwin Kaufman of San Anselmo is chairman.

SUPERCART CODE

HEED RULES OF THE AISLE

Pushy personalities don't heed rules of the aisle in supermarkets. They cause upsetting situations—and sometimes skin shins.

The problem of proper deportment while pushing a supermarket cart first was noticed only by poor injured fellow shoppers.

But the way the innocent pusher's being bumped and bruised by thoughtless cart pushers now has become a matter of public safety, as the Greater New York Safety Council sees it.

As a community service, the council has drawn up a code for supermarket characters. It applies nationwide.

Many rules of the road apply in piloting a cart through the produce, meat and sweets department.

Aisle hogs, for example, are something like road hogs. Then there are the supermarket tailgaters. They cause rear-end collisions just as automotive tailgaters cause smash ups.

Ditto for unsettling conditions caused by cart pushers who pass without observing S.O.P. — simple, ordinary, politeness.

Rules of the aisle suggested by the council include the following:

—Gentle that cart. The aisle isn't a drag race strip. And don't park the cart in the middle of a traffic lane while you shop elsewhere.

—Avoid cutting through the checkout lines. If in a hurry, try going around through less crowded aisles.

—If you want to pass, try a simple "excuse me." It gets better results than brute force.

—Keep both feet under you — not stretched behind — when you bend down for something on a low shelf or pause to meditate about selections.

The tips together add up to common sense. Only someone lacking common sense, for example, would select a can of asparagus from the bottom instead of the top of a display.

The care and feeding of children in supermarkets also caught attention from the safety experts.

"Children should not be allowed to push carts around at will, running with them and using them like scooters," the council said.

"No child should hitch on the side of a cart or stand in one. Be sure the baby is securely in the seat provided and stays there."

Insist also that the offspring keep patties off the wares. Don't let 'em poke, punch, pull or otherwise discomoluate edibles.

"No one should break open packages out of curiosity or eat part of the contents and leave the remainder strewn around," the council said.

"Unless you are prepared to pay for the strewn food, you are permitting your child to steal and learn disrespect for the property of others with your approval—a step toward juvenile delinquency." (UPI)

Then he might investigate.

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "Does pornography really contribute to the delinquency of minors?"

Mrs. A. R. I direct a large staff of child guidance experts. This winter they are working with an unprecedented number of unwed teen-age mothers. Pornography was a factor in the sex delinquency of many of them. They also are working with a larger than normal number of sexually delinquent boys. Dirty pictures, dirty books, dirty magazines, are a factor in their delinquency too.

Effective Picture Grouping Depends On Space, Balance

CHICAGO (UPI) — The correct arrangement of picture groupings can point up a decorative scheme by focusing interest in one area of a room, highlighting a piece of furniture or achieving a balanced look.

In hanging single pictures or groups, the arrangement should be related to the available wall space, the lines of the furniture beneath it, and the rules of good balance, says the Picture and Frame Institute.

THE INSTITUTE suggested these tips for effective picture groupings:

—Mark off an area on the floor approximately the same size as the wall space where the grouping will hang. Then arrange the pictures on the floor before hanging them on the wall.

—For a large grouping, start with one important picture, and build your arrangement around it. The key picture may be in the middle, on the top, or on the bottom of the grouping.

—ARRANGE and rearrange your secondary pictures around the key picture until you get a pleasing overall effect. Don't spread them too far apart because a narrower space between pictures will tend to give the feeling of one mass rather than of several separate pictures.

—TRY TO balance the entire grouping so that the eye flows smoothly from one picture to another. If your eye is continually drawn to one side of the grouping, rearrange the pictures to achieve better balance.

—AFTER YOU have decided on a "floor" grouping, cut out a piece of paper large enough to hold the complete grouping. Lay the paper on the floor and draw the outlines of the pictures as you have arranged them on the paper. Mark the spot where the nail or hook will go. Tape the paper to the wall space, drive the hooks, then remove the paper and hang the pictures.

—INVISIBLE MEANS of hanging should be used where possible so as not to detract attention from the picture itself. Either nails, hook and nail combinations, or special picture hooks with adhesive backs may be used.

Screw eyes for picture wire should be placed one quarter of the way down from the top of the picture.

Teen-Age Boys Still Getting Pornographic Material In Mail

I'm sorry to bring up a nasty subject this clean winter day. I'd rather talk of pleasant things. But our teen-age boys still are getting filthy pictures and letters in the mail. Their lives can be ruined this way. You should know about it.

Last fall thousands of boys received letters advertising two new pornographic magazines with exciting quotations and illustrations. This winter they are receiving ads from sellers of unretouched nude photos. These unordered letters contain samples which trap our sons into buying many pictures. Conscienceless photographers and publishers are getting rich this way. Their ads hit our boys at a time when they are very vulnerable.

Why the letters? Perhaps I'm wrong, but I blame our courts. We have a series of bizarre court decisions. Judges have held some books and magazines we previously called "pornographic" really are sound literature and should be sold freely. Last spring our Supreme Court approved the distribution of one of the foulest magazines imaginable. Believe it or not, the magazine is devoted to homosexual activities. Yet the judges on the Supreme Court said it couldn't be barred! Now of course, anything goes.

What can you do? Write to your Congressman and Senators. Tell them what is happening. Ask them to get busy immediately. Stricter laws are needed. You might also write to the White House. Maybe I'm naive, but I don't think that our President knows or approves of this deluge of filth. If enough letters are addressed to him, he'll be told about it.

CLOSED PORTALS—Famed Brandenberger Gate on Berlin's Unter Den Linden is blocked off by the Communists' ragged cement block wall, seen here from the British sector of West Berlin. Unter Den Linden is one of many streets which dead-end at the Red frontier.

EAST BERLINER'S VIEW—At least West Berliners can get a close look at their side of Brandenberger Gate. Those on the Communist side must stay back of another barricade which sets off a 300-foot "no man's land" kept clear for security reasons.

A Visit To Berlin Wall

Twenty-eight miles of crude cement block wall, unimindful of churches, famous landmarks, apartments or streets, meanders through the divided city of Berlin.

Bud Iseman of Budd's Travel Service, San Rafael, made a number of pictures of the wall when he shepherded a group of Marinites on a tour of Communist countries last year.

The wall, Iseman said, runs across streets, down the middle of streets and right up to the walls of buildings so that the buildings themselves become a part of it.

Back of the wall lies a 300-foot "no man's land" which is policed by East German Communist guards.

"They're quite young-looking—just kids—and they'll shoot at anything," said Iseman. "They're kind of crackpots."

Whole apartment buildings along the wall have been incorporated into it. People were evicted and the windows were bricked up, leaving only small openings for peeping—or shooting—by the East Berlin police.

"We saw guns in them and some people looking through," said Iseman.

Travel between East and West Berlin is allowed only through checkpoints, and at these gates the Communists have strategically placed heavy barriers which force vehicles to zig-zag through, thus assuring no "crash" exits.

Iseman expects to take another group of Marinites on a tour of Berlin and Russia in April.

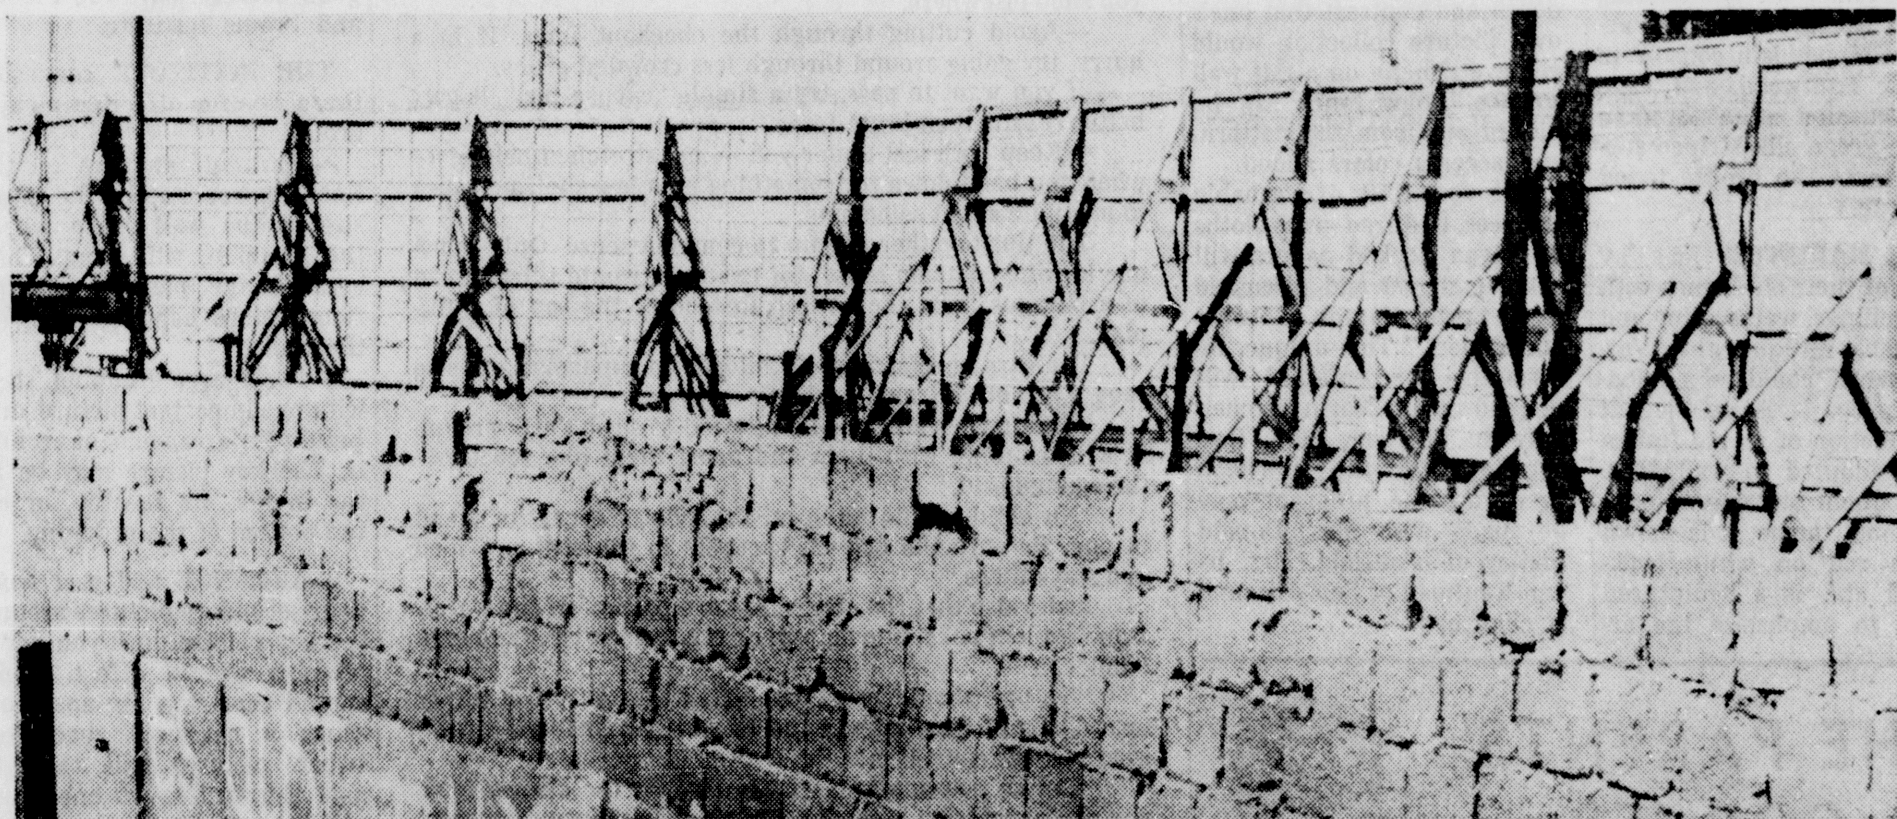

NO LOOKING ALLOWED — The Communists placed wooden shields on top of the Berlin wall at this location to keep residents on either side from shouting and waving at each other. Beyond the shields in the Red zone are apartments. This close view shows hasty, slipshod construction of the wall.

LIMITED ACCESS—A car is allowed to pass through the narrow gate in the Berlin wall into the French sector. An East German police guard (just right of pole) immediately lowers a barricade behind the car.

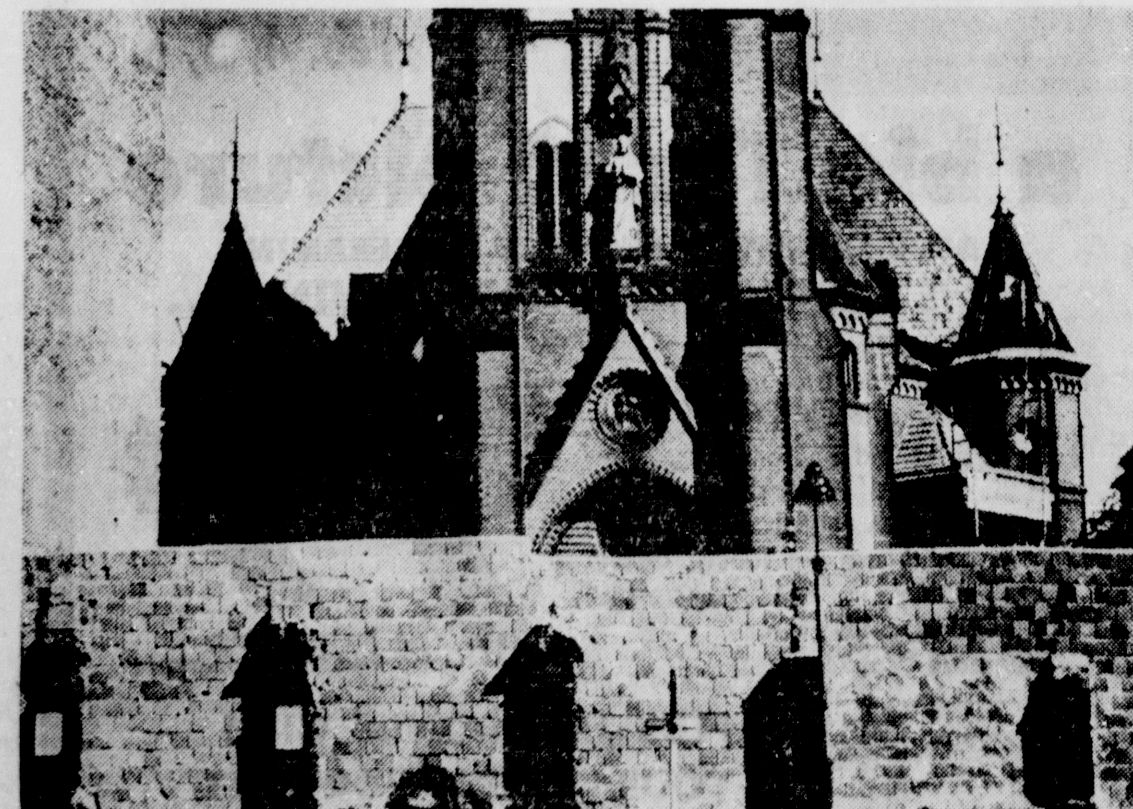

TO WATER'S EDGE—The wall, topped here by barbed wire, stops only at the brink of the Spree canal, where East Berliners sometimes swim or walk on ice, depending on the season, to reach the Western zone. The wall resumes, however, in the background where a ship is tied up.

SEALED WINDOWS — Apartment buildings just inside East Berlin have been evacuated and the windows bricked shut except for small peepholes which can double as gun ports. The buildings were closed to prevent people going in one side and jumping out of windows to West Berlin.

NO WORSHIPPING HERE — This Catholic church was no exception; it was built into the famous wall with only the pillars at the foot of the front steps sticking through into West Berlin. The church, empty and unused, is falling into disrepair, as evidenced by shabby cupola roof at right.

OUTPOST IN WEST—The Russian memorial to the 5,000 Red soldiers who died in the siege of Berlin is ringed with barbed wire put up by the British, in whose sector the monument stands. But

Russian guards patrol continuously inside the wire, changing only at specified intervals. (Photos by Bud Iseman of Budd's Travel Service)

"Extensive vandalism" has occurred there, young Glass declared.

Burglar Fails

A burglar used a screw driver in an unsuccessful attempt to pry open the door of the rector's office at St. John's Episcopal Church at Shady Lane and Lagunitas Road in Ross Friday night, police reported today. The door was scarred by pry marks and the lock was damaged.

TAX FACTS

How To Itemize Deductions

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Shall I itemize my deductions on my federal return? If your itemized deductions are less than 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income and your adjusted gross income is less than $10,000 you should claim the standard deduction or use the tax table. If your income is between $5,000 and $10,000, take 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income. However, if it is over $10,000, your standard deduction is limited to $1,000. If you are a married person filing a separate return, your standard deduction is limited to $500.

If your income is under $5,000, you must use the tax table to gain the benefits of the standard deduction. You cannot deduct 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income. The tax table automatically allows you 10 per cent in lieu of itemized deductions.

It will ordinarily be better to itemize your deductions if you are a homeowner paying interest and taxes, or if you make large contributions to recognized charities, or if you have unusually large medical expenses during the year, or if you have a casualty loss, etc.

If you or your wife file separate returns and one elects to itemize deductions, the other must also itemize.

One spouse cannot file a long Form 1040 and take all the deductions and the other spouse file a Form 1040A or take the standard deduction or use the tax table.

You are expected to pay your income tax on the basis of the lowest figure possible; therefore, you should choose the form that results in the lowest tax for you.

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

Marinite Claims New Cement Spray Is Fireproof And Stain Resistant

Permaglaze of Marin, a recently franchised business at 38 Front Street, San Rafael, claims to provide a lifetime cement spray coating for any masonry wall including sheet-rock, according to its local operator Lad Novotny of Mill Valley.

Novotny, formerly of Czechoslovakia, has been a commercial artist in Chicago. He moved to Marin about a year ago. He says his product is completely waterproof, fireproof and stain resistant. It can be applied to both interior and exterior surfaces and to swimming pools and can be matched to hundreds of colors. There is a five-year guarantee on swimming pools, 10 years on buildings.

Since opening in December, Novotny has negotiated 18 large contracts, one an eight-story building in San Francisco, and has dealt with many local architects and contractors.

The formula originated in Germany. Permaglaze, headquartered in Miami, Fla., now has 170 franchised dealers in the U.S. Novotny does his own work and has two helpers. Novotny has sprayed his premises on Front Street inside and outside.

SIGNS OF EXPANSION. Norman H. Scheidt of Mill Valley, partner in Charles Mapes and Co., has moved from the San Francisco office to take over management of Marin operations. The staff in San Rafael has increased to eight since last June. Mapes is an agent for Kachler-Farrar's Fourth and C Building.

Scholarship Tests National Merit Scholarship qualifying tests will be given to interested Redwood High School juniors on March 9, on the Larkspur campus. Signups are now being taken in the counseling office.

Good Month For Art In County

This month will bring a new art show and three art programs to the Frances Young Gallery at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

"Motion: Actual and Illusory" is the theme of the new show which will open at 8 p.m. Thursday and run through March 3. The gallery is open daily from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursdays. The show and the programs are sponsored by the Marin Society of Artists.

On Thursday at 8 p.m., Kevin Wall will give the last in a series of Art Appreciation Workshop lectures. On Feb. 14 at 8 p.m. Lucienne Bloch Dimittroff will talk and demonstrate art techniques. On Feb. 21 at 8 p.m. Serge Trubach will lecture with slides on "The Evolution of Modernism." This will be followed by a panel discussion of "Realism, Abstraction and Expressionism."

PATENT FOR NEW 'SPACE STATION'

Lockheed Missiles and Space Co.'s 216-foot 'space station' is believed to be the first patented in the field. The concept came about after 4,500 hours of study by 25 scientists and engineers in 1959. The multi-purpose nuclear-powered station would have a crew of several men, and is planned for indefinite orbit around the earth at an altitude of 318 miles. It would serve as a laboratory, observation platform and strategic base.

Art, Garden Fair Audit Is Due Board

An audit of the 1962 Marin Art and Garden Fair will be reviewed by the board of supervisors tomorrow.

County Auditor Michael Mitchell comments in a letter attached to the report that the fair "has pretty much reached the saturation point," and the "ultimate answer is, of course, development of our own fairgrounds" at the Civic Center.

Total cost of last year's fair was $76,490, financed by state pari-mutuel funds and admission charges. It was attended by more than 27,000 people.

In connection with eventual construction of new fair facilities, the board will discuss the possibility of constructing a veterans memorial auditorium on the fairgrounds.

County officials and architect Aaron Green met Friday in Sacramento with representatives of the state fairs and expositions division to seek state assistance in auditorium construction.

County Administrator Alan Bruce said there were "no substantial roadblocks" at the meeting. "We got a mostly 'yes' answer," he said.

The board meeting will begin at 9 a.m.

Other agenda items include a complaint from the Marin Neon Co. about "unreasonable" restrictions on outdoor advertising, a report from Bruce on the senior citizens' program, consideration of a Civic Center parking ordinance, and probation department requests for additional courthouse alterations.
